The official local forecast for to-day is continued rains, stationary temperature. For Tuesday, a light drizzle in the morning, cooler, with a cold snap Wednesday.

Observer Hagen says: "The storm over us to-day is not Saturday's storm, but one which developed in Illinois Sunday morning. It is now central over Lake Erie and its effects will be felt until about Tuesday noon. Northerly winds prevail along the entire lakes except Ontario. A fall in temperature is expected to begin Tuesday morning, and a cold snap is expected by Wednesday, the temperature going to about 25 degrees above, probably lower. The isotherm of 10 above is the lowest in the United States this morning, but includes only North Dakota. The isotherm of 60 degrees is the highest and covers the Middle Atlantic states..

"The storm signal is floating over the lakes for a northwest gale to-day. This storm will affect the Middle Atlantic states and give the long wanted rains in New York."

WITH ALL HANDS.

Little Doubt That the Finney is Lost.

A Wreckage Reported Below Long Point.

When Last Seen She Was Making Heavy Weather.

The Samuel Mather Goes to the Bottom

With Three Hundred Feet of Water Over Her—Long List of Wrecks and Loss of Life Reported on the Great Lakes To-Day.

There seems little doubt that the schooner Finney has gone to the bottom with all hands. She left Toledo a week ago Saturday for Buffalo with a cargo of 21,000 bushels of wheat, and under the existing circumstances should have reached Buffalo in at least 36 hours.

Captain John O. Johnson, of the schooner Barnes, told a Bee that he saw the Finney going down the lake making very bad weather. The Barnes was then under "the Eau," light, and he says it was a terrible storm.

The crew of the Finney consisted of the following:

Captain and owner, THOMAS DIARDAN, of Buffalo.

Mate—GEORGE CHRISTIANSON, Buffalo.

Crew—WILLIAM SMITH, Buffalo; JAMES CONWAY, Dublin; SAMUEL M. STACEY, Sodus, N. Y.; HARRY POPPER, Buffalo.

A woman cook, name unknown, shipped in Toledo.

Capt. Conlin, of the schooner William Home, which has arrived in Buffalo, says he passed close to three spars sunk 26 miles below Long point, and 15 miles south of Grand river.

He is certain they belong to the Finney. The mizzen is not a pole spar, as first reported, but a short mast with topmast. Capt. Conlin long has been on canal schooners, and claims he is thoroughly familiar with the Finney's appearance and rig.

The Finney was owned and sailed by Thomas Riordan, of Buffalo. She had a crew of six men. Capt. Riordan was competent and very cautious. He leaves a widow and four grown-up children. The Finney was valued at about $6,000 and was insured for $3,000 in Cincinnati Underwriters and $2,333 in General Marine. Her cargo was fully insured.

The Finney was formerly a four-and-aft canal schooner but was re-rigged into a three-and-after.

Eighteen Men Missing.

Glenhaven, Mich., Nov. 23.—The tug Temple Emery, towing two scows owned by Mann Brothers, of Two Rivers, across the lake, while 20 miles south of Manitous, Thursday night, was forced to let go of the scows and run to the island.

The wind was a gale from the southwest, and the last seen of the scows they were in bad shape. Each boat had a crew of nine men on it, which the tug was unable to get off, and it is feared that all are lost. The tug started down the lake Friday to look for them, but nothing has been heard from it.

Hunting for the Pelican.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 23.—The steamer Wocoken has arrived, having been unable to find her consort, the Pelican. Tugs went in search of the missing schooner to-day.

The Newsboy a Total Loss.

Escanaba, Nov. 23.—The tug Monarch has rescued the crew of the schooner Newsboy. The storm of Friday and Saturday drove her so far on the reef and racked her so that she was abandoned as a total loss.

The crew was driven from the cabin and deck into the forecastle and finally into the chain lockers, where they were imprisoned for two nights and a day with wet food and no fire.

Two men from the island tried to rescue the crew during the storm, but their boat was capsized and only the assistance of the crew of the schooner saved them from drowning.

The Newsboy's spars were all cut away to make the vessel rest easy, but every sea shook her so that the crew momentarily expected to be drowned.

The vessel now lies with her stern high in the air, a total loss, abandoned by owners and underwriters.

The Missing Lathrop.

Alpena, Nov. 23.—Nothing has yet been heard from the missing barge Lathrop. The tug Frank W. has been searching for her since Saturday morning, and the propeller Garden City also started out to find her.

The Lathrop, which was bound for this city in tow of the Garden City, was dismasted while crossing Saginaw bay last Thursday. The tow line soon parted and the Lathrop was left adrift on the bay.

There was terrible sea running and a gale from the southwest, which would drive the vessel out into the lake, where it is feared she will founder.

She had a crew of six persons, Captain John Glenn and Mate Charles Dove, of this city; cook, Mrs. Mary Pangburn and her son, Lane Pangborn, of Windsor, and two seamen whose names are unknown.

Captain Glenn has a family in this city. The Lathrop was an old vessel belonging to F. W. Gilchrist, of Alpena, and carried no insurance. She had 100 tons of coal on board.

Samuel Mather Sunk.

Sault Ste Marie, Nov. 23.—The steambarge Parks Foster, of the Owen line, Chicago, which cleared from here on the 14th inst., light for Duluth, returned here, having experienced a terrible southwest gale on Lake Superior, which drove her over onto the north shore, where she pounded on the bottom near Dog river for 45 hours.

Her bottom is somewhat damaged, and she will no doubt have to go into the dry-dock.

When she arrived here she brought the crew of the propeller Samuel Mather, having taken them off the steambarge Brazil above Point Iroquois.

The Brazil came into collision with the Samuel Mather eight miles above Point Iroquois at 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

The Mather was bound down and the Brazil up. She struck the Mather near the after-hatch on the starboard side and sank her in 50 fathoms of water.

The crew of the Mather got their yawl boats down and had just got into them when the Mather went down. The crew lost all their clothes, and some of them who had their summer savings laid up lost it all. The men were taken aboard the Brazil from their yawl boast, and were afterwards transferred to the Parks Foster. They are all here safe.

The Samuel Mather is a steambarge of 1,576 gross tons. She was built in Cleveland in 1887 and owned by Pickands, Mather & Co. She was valued at about $95,000. She carried a wheat cargo of 58,000 bushels for Buffalo. She lies in 50 fathoms of water. Herself and cargo are a total loss.

The Brazil was loaded with coal for Duluth. She has three of her frames and one stringer broken, but, although leaking, she proceeded on her trip to Duluth. The mates of both the Mather and Brazil were on watch when the collision occurred.

Parties arriving here from Whitefish Point report large quantities of lumber as having washed ashore during the past two days. The natives have picked up a small cargo. It is feared some lumber-laden craft has been wrecked.

NATIONAL DEMOCRACY.

The Executive Committee to Meet December 8.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 23.—S. P. Sheerin, secretary of the national democratic committee and ex-officio secretary of the executive committee of that body, has by direction of Senator Brice, chairman, issued a call for a meeting of the executive committee at the Arlington hotel, Washington, D. C., December 8, 1891. The executive committee is composed of 25 members of the national committee.

GUILTY OF LIBEL.

Pottsville, Pa., Nov. 23.—In a suit brought for libel by A. J. Womelsdorf, a prominent mining engineer of this city, against J. M. Place and Rufus R. Wilson, proprietors of the Pennsylvania Telegram, a sensational sheet, published at Reading, a verdict of guilty was rendered, with a recommendation to the mercy of the court for Wilson.

QUAY STILL FILING LIBEL SUITS

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 23.—Senator Quay has filed a libel suit demanding of the Post $100,000 damages for charging him with sharing in Bardsley's thievings. The suit is based upon two editorials published October 28 and October 29, one entitled "A Bardsley-Quay Divide," and the other "Bardsley, Quay & Co."

LAKE IMPROVEMENTS.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 23.—The waterways convention has been called to meet in this city on December 17. The convention will consider the best means of securing a 21-feet channel from Duluth and Chicago to Buffalo and also how a ship canal to the sea might be constructed.

WET FROM STEM TO STERN.

Rough Voyage Across the Stormy Deep.

The Lahn and Werra Have Exciting Trips—Some Passengers Injured and Others Die.

New York, Nov. 23.—Two Norddeutscher Lloyd steamships, the Lahn and the Werra, reached New York from Southampton within eight hours of each other. Both had to fight their way out of Southampton harbor in the midst of a southwest gale that was sweeping the English channel and strewing wrecks all along the English coast.

The Lahn proved herself the speedier vessel, for she left Southampton more than 14 hours after the Werra and she crossed Sandy Hook bar seven hours and eight minutes ahead of the latter steamship.

There was not a dry plank on the decks of either vessel during the entire voyage, and the passengers of both were not allowed to come on deck until the day before entering this port.

Three passengers, one in the steerage and two in the second cabin, were slightly injured on the Lahn, and one steerage passenger died of heart disease.

No one was hurt on the Werra, though there were four deaths on the voyage from natural causes. The vessels escaped injury and gave good proof of their seaworthiness.

When the Werra left Bromerhaven on the night of November 9 a gale was raging in the North Sea. It was the same storm that was sweeping the English coast and rendering Queenstown harbor inaccessible.

But the Werra plowed her way through and reached Southampton at 10:30 o'clock the next evening. Early on the morning of November 11 she started for America in a storm of little less than hurricane force.

Pilot E. Penny was at the wheel and when the vessel reached the English pilot station the waves were so high that he could not be taken off and he had to make the entire voyage. He will go back on the Lahn.

MARRIAGE WAS A FAILURE.

Redfern Divorced from His Handsome Wife.

The English Bride of Two Months Was Altogether Too Gay for the New York Ladies' Tailor.

New York, Nov. 23.—Judge Bookstaver of the court of common pleas released Ernest A. Redfern, the Fifth avenue ladies' tailor, from his marital woes by granting his application for a divorce from his wife, Catherine.

Redfern's married life was short but eventful. He married his wife in England in October, 1889. She was then scarcely 20 years of age and he was 29.

She came of good family, and had a host of friends and was fond of good living. They lived together for only two months, as he had come to this country on business and his wife was not well enough to stand the ocean voyage.

Soon after he arrived here he heard disquieting stories about her behavior with men, but took no notice of them. The stories became so frequent, however, that he decided to make an investigation, the result of which was the filing of the divorce papers which named Charles Williams, Mrs. Redfern's half brother, and two other men, named Roe and Herbert, as co-respondents.

The service of summons in the matter was by publication, but Mrs. Redfern did not defend the suit.

Mrs. Redfern was a strikingly handsome woman and moved in the best English society. She was very accomplished, always had a large following of admirers and until the divorce proceedings were made public no aspersions against her character had ever been made.

FIGHTING FOR A CROSSING.

Lake Shore and Wabash on the Outs.

An Interesting Battle Being Fought on the Lines West of Fayette, O.

Fayette, Nov. 23.—(Special)—The Lake Shore folks are now enjoying the benefits of reciprocity. Some time ago the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad company refused the Wabash & St. Louis railroad the right to cross their track at Adrian.

After a hot skirmish the Wabash folks sought the courts and were victorious.

Now the L. S. & M. S. folks want to cross the Wabash folks at Alvordton west of here, with the extension of the T. & O. N. railway, but they are met with red hot opposition from the start.

For over two weeks the Wabash have kept one or two trains on the line of the would-be point of crossing, and a lively war is waging.

Two set of crews, day and night, for both companies, are always on the alert.

The Wabash boys never miss an opportunity to relieve the cars of the Lake Shore folks of any movable material, rails, ties, etc., and it's fun and fight from morn till night.

WARM TIMES IN NEW YORK

A Great Week in Store for the Politicians.

The Star of the G. O. P. Has Set in the Empire State.

Democrats Are Alert to Protect the Interests of Their Party and Stand Up for What Honestly Belongs to Them.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Since Fighting Fassett was slaughtered luck seems to have deserted the republicans.

On the face of the returns for several days after election they had the legislature by a safe majority, but the face of the returns has been so badly battered since that time that nobody would now recognize it.

The fact is that while Fassett was tiger hunting in the metropolitan jungle, and Tammany was stalking game in the grass country, Governor Hill was on a trapping expedition among the legislative districts, where his presence was not suspected.

But the governor, like Fassett, got fooled, and has been yelling ever since to get even. The result h been one of the hottest after election fights in the history of the state. There is no doubt as to the reason. Governor Hill must have the legislature to carry out his presidential plan, and the republicans must prevent him or dissolve as a party.

And luck has gone against the republicans. With the senatorial fight practically narrowed down to two districts—Deane's and Sherwood's—Deane dies, and the democratic state officers decline to comply with the request of the Steuben county canvassers to return the resolution declaring their opinion that Sherwood was ineligible.

The latter request was made by order of the supreme court, but the state board relies on Attorney General Tabor's opinion, that is as a general thing superior to the courts of the state.

Of course the death of Senator Deane does not at all affect the canvass of that district, though it may take the fight out of the republicans in a measure. It is said that Governor Hill personally visited this district yesterday to put more grit into his lieutenants there, though they do not seem to need it.

If the democrats can capture the Deane district and the Sherwood district, as Governor Hill insists they will, the senate will be a tie and the casting vote of Lieutenant Governor Sheehan will enable his party to organize it.

After that a number of republicans can be speedily unseated and Governor Flower's ideas can be readily put through. Before the desire of Governor Hill's heart is achieved, however, look out for one of the most desperate struggles ever seen at the capitol.

It is the struggle of a great party fighting for its life, and will be well worth the witnessing.

Smart Play in Onondago.

The latest evidence of democratic alertness came from Onondago county. Senator-elect Peck, who got scared at the democratic board's delay in the canvass, secured a mandamus to compel prompt action. The board obeyed the court's order to the letter, and as a result David A. Munroe, jr., the republican assemblyman elect in the First district, was counted out on the ground that there was no time to correct the clerical errors, which gave Patrick J. Ryan, his opponent, a trifling majority. The republicans, however, procured an order from Judge Kennedy to have the returns sent back for correction.

This week the final and decisive round of the great match will be fought here. On Tuesday the demand of the Sullivan county democrats for their rights will be made in court and will probably result in their favor, as the republicans gave a very doubtful majority of one to Assemblyman Kenrick.

On the following day it is likely that the democratic charges looking to the removal of the republican county clerk in the Deane district will receive Governor Hill's attention.

The result is uncertain, but altogether it looks as if the star of the G. O. P. had set in the Empire state and was destined not to rise again for years to come.

LOOKING FOR A SNAP.

Just the Kind of People to be Taken In by Sharks.

Washington, Nov. 23.—To-day the director of the mint, Mr. E. O. Leech, received a unique letter from a man in Allegheny, Pa.

The writer said that in reading a pamphlet concerning the mint he noticed that the 20-cent piece was a legal tender to the amount of five dollars.

He said that he had one such coin and asked where he should send it to get the five dollars for it.

"We receive many letters as queer as that," said Mr. Leech. "Some time ago we gave public notice that subsidiary coin would be forwarded to banks or persons 'without cost,' meaning, of course, that the government would pay express charges.

"Many interpreted it to mean that we would give them the money, and we actually received scores of letters asking for fifty or a hundred dollars."

WERE YOU EVER SCALPED?

If Not, Read This and Don't Go Hunting Indians.

A Missouri Man Tells How It Feels to Have the Top of Your Head Pulled Off by an Apache.

Carrollton, Mo., Nov. 23.—There lives on a farm a few miles from this city a man who has had an experience known to but few men.

This is James N. Mann. He was scalped by the Indians 16 years ago, and still has the spot on his head, a running sore.

He was shot and scalped and left for dead by the Apaches in Arizona during one of the numerous troubles with those Indians.

He recovered, but his head never healed, and even now he is compelled to have it dressed twice daily.

He says the doctors tell him that it is gradually sapping his vitality, but he thinks that since it has not killed him in 16 years he will live out his natural term of existence.

He says that the feeling when being scalped is the most terrible form of torture that he could think of.

When he was shot he was left lying by his companions, who were compelled to flee for their lives.

The Indians came up, and one swung himself down from his horse and, thinking he was dead, took his scalp.

He ran his knife around the left side of his head in a half circle, and then made a straight cut across the top of the head.

The cutting gave little pain, but when the Indian raised the edge of the scalp and then took the skin in his teeth and began tearing it off of his head the pain was so excruciating that he fainted.

It felt as if 10,000 needles had been stuck in his head.

He does not know how long he lay there in an unconscious condition, but when he recovered he felt as if his whole head was on fire. For weeks afterwards he could not get out of bed, but was compelled to lie very quiet.

It was months before he could get out of the house, and fully a year before he felt in good health again.

He now feels no inconvenience from it, for his head has been sore for so long a time that the attention he gives it becomes a second nature to him.

IT MAY BE SMYTH.

Rumored That Harrison Will Send Him to Liberia.

Washington, Nov. 23.—The colored leaders here were all agog to-day over the rumor that the president has decided upon the man to represent this government as its minister to the Republic of Liberia, and that the appointment is to be announced this week.

Colored men from nearly every state in the union are applicants for the place.

But rumor has it that the appointment will be tendered to John H. Smyth, of the District of Columbia, who gained some notoriety several months ago by a speech he made here in favor of a division in the social relations of the black and mulatto people.

Smyth is a black man and served some years ago as minister to Liberia, where he imbibed the teachings of Dr. Blyden, who advocates the supremacy of the black race unadulterated with Caucasian blood over all others.

On account of Mr. Smyth's position on this question, which is constantly before the minds of the colored people, he is being much opposed by the leaders of the race, nearly all of whom have white blood in their veins.

Other opposition comes from those who say that he is only a District man, and his appointment would not strengthen the administration, or satisfy anybody who can vote either for a delegate to the national convention or the nominee of the republican party.

OVER A DEAD BABE.

A Mansfield Undertaker Has Got Himself into Trouble.

Columbus, O., Nov. 23.—The state board of health has a perplexing case on hand, which will probably result in the arrest and prosecution of a Mansfield undertaker.

Dr. Reed, health officer of the latter city, notified Dr. Probt, secretary of the state board, of the death from diphtheria in Mansfield of a child whose parents desired to take the corpse to Norwalk for burial.

Under the rules of the state board it could not be transported by train, and it was proposed to convey the body by hearse. This fact was reported, and the local authorities advised that if the body was properly prepared this might be done with their consent.

For some reason not reported to the state secretary consent was not given by either the health officer of Mansfield or Norwalk. The undertaker, however, disregarded the injunction of the authorities, and, according to reports, started with the body of the child to drive to Norwalk, a distance of probably 30 miles. He will be prosecuted by the health authorities.

THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

Annual Report of the Trustees Filed.

A Good Showing Made by the People in Charge of Ohio's Educational Institutions.

Columbus, Nov. 23.—The board of trustees of the Ohio state university have filed with the governor their twenty-first annual report.

The receipts during the year from sources other than state and congressional appropriations were $50,496.07; receipts from congressional appropriation, $48,000; appropriation from state, $32,300, making a total from all sources of $130,795. The total disbursements were $105,237.77. Bulance in hands of trustees, $25,231.12.

Among the principal items of expense were salaries, fuel and care of buildings, $59,986.25; department operators and supplies, $9,188.22; library, $2,536.05; plans for new buildings, $3,350; improvement of Neil avenue, $1,095.25.

The number of students in attendance during the year was as follows: Fall term, 477; winter term, 443; spring term, 400. The whole number in attendance during the year, as shown by catalogue, was 657. The number enrolled at the present fall term is 636, of which 50 are in the law department.

In regard to the proposed creation of a medical department, he urges caution, believing that no such action should be taken until the many urgent needs of existing departments are at least partially met, and until it is possible to establish a medical school with the strongest faculty that can possibly be secured.

HIS LIFE BUT A WRECK.

The Sad Story of Tom Cannon's Career.

Strong Drink Drove Him Into a Penitentiary from Where He Will Drift to an Alms House.

Valparaiso, Ind., Nov. 23.—Tom Cannon, a physical and mental wreck, was released from the penitentiary at Michigan City last week.

There is much that is pathetic in the recital of Cannon's strange career.

He was born of noble parentage, but, disappointed in a love venture, he crossed the expanse of waters and landed in New York, where he sought in marriage the hand of an heiress.

He was successful in this venture and lived happily in a home surrounded by all the comforts which wealth could procure.

Strong drink was the bane of his life, and, after five years of blissful wedded life, he abandoned his wife and child and came west.

He tried to throw off the influences of dissipation, but, driven to abject poverty by drink, stole an overcoat and was sentenced to the penitentiary for one year.

In the solitude of a felon's cell he brooded over his troubles, and he became a raving maniac, mourning in the moments of his wild delirium the happy days of his former life.

To-day Cannon is a wanderer upon the face of the earth. His wife died of a broken heart. The child has been adopted into a wealthy family and poor Tom Cannon will soon become an inmate of a poor house.

TO ATTACK SHERMAN.

More Dark Lantern Politics by Ohio Republicans.

Foraker's Followers Are Preparing to Stab the Man Who Aided in Making Their Party Famous.

Columbus, O., Nov. 23.—The quietude in affairs of the senatorial contest which has prevailed at this end of the line the past few days was broken by information relating to an important development of the canvass.

It is stated upon reliable authority that Tuesday or Wednesday a document is to be given to the public attacking Senator Sherman in a review of his 30 years' of public life.

The principal points presented against him are understood to relate to his course and votes on labor legislation, his speech and vote on the arrearages pension act in 1884, and an unfriendly spirit manifested during his congressional career toward the colored man.

HIS CROWN IN HOC

William Again Attracting Attention Abroad.

His Extravagant Manner of Living

Has Brought Him to the End of His String.

Creditors of a King Trying to Shake Him Down.

The Situation Abroad Is Clearly Understood When It Is Known That a Man Like the Above Could Provoke a Continental War.

New York, Nov. 23.—The Paris representative of the Herald cables his paper as follows: "Politics are not always amusing, and just now when statesmen in every part of Europe have so many and such grave cares to conceal, we owe some gratitude to monarchs like King Milan, who do something to divert their fellow creatures.

To judge from the speech of Count Kalnoky to the delegations, Servia may yet prove a brand of discord which will kindle a great European war.

But King Milan is a constant joy to all familiar with the secrets of contemporary politics. As you know, King Milan abdicated two years ago in favor of his son. For some time past he has been living in Paris and enjoying himself.

You might not recognize him in the short, stout, stylishly dressed man with gray whiskers whom you saw driving past you on the boulevard in a hired brougham or barouche.

At night, if you met him at his club (he affects the circle de la rue Royale), losing, maybe, half a million francs at baccarat or poker, you would feel that the destinies of Servia were unsafe in his hands.

Queen Natalie must have had hard times with her spouse. His love of pleasure is unceasing and insatiable. When he is not driving or gambling or supping at Bignon's and Joseph's (his favorite haunts), he may be seen in the stage boxes of the theaters ogling actresses and basking in the smiles of third-rate singers.

You could not say that King Milan has done much to increase the prestige of the crowned heads of Europe. This royal scion of a race of hog raisers once elbowed emperors. He literally flung away his money.

Last year he hired a special train to take him to Carlsbad. That cost him 40,000 francs. The other day at the wedding of the daughter of a Jewish banker he spent 5,000 francs on a bouquet of orchids.

His prodigality was at the root of all his troubles when he reigned in Servia. He thought nothing of running up to Vienna for a game of cards, and one night he was so thoroughly "cleaned out" in that city that he had to put his crown in pawn.

This got to the ears of the Emperor of Austria. A few hours later Milan's debts were all paid off. The royal delinquent went to thank the emperor and promised he would never play again.

By midnight he had lost 200,000 florins more, and his crown had once more gone to the pawnbrokers.

That day he forfeited the protection of Austria. A year later, after having involved himself in all kinds of financial scandals and domestic difficulties with his consort, he was forced to abdicate. But he was smart enough to make his terms before he quit the throne. He did not abdicate until he had been guaranteed 2,000,000 francs to wipe out his debts. The Servians were so glad to get rid of him that they jumped at the bargain. He did not leave, however, till some six months later, and when he had spent every cent of his 2,000,000 francs he drifted back to Belgrade, where he intrigued against his own son.

The Servians soon grasped the situation. They asked him how much he would take to get out. His Majesty replied that he would go for a million. They gave him his million, on condition that he would leave politics alone, and he departed. But ere another year had passed Milan came to the conclusion that he could not live without seeing his dear son.

"All right," replied the Servian regents, "we will send your son to Paris for a month."

This did not suit King Milan's book. He asked permission to realize on his Servian property, which had been seized by the regents as a guarantee of his good behavior.

The regents hesitated, but at last consented. Milan promptly mortgaged his rights in the Danube fisheries and sold the mansion he owned in Belgrade, with the estates and parks and jewels of the crown.

These brought in two millions more which he has since squandered. A fortnight ago he appealed to the regents for a further sum of four millions. In exchange for his promise not to cross the Servian frontier and his abandonment of all his private and public rights in the coutry, even his citizenship, they expressed their willingness to pay him the money.

But before he got a chance to collect it, his creditors pounced down on the king. They saw he had come to the end of his resources, and that his ex-subjects would do no more for him. They attached the money, and if Milan gets half a million of his four millions he will be lucky. His Majesty, of course, is deeply incensed at the treatment, but the Servians are happy and the public is amused.

The political result of the affair may be serious, for although he has abdicated, King Milan is the heir apparent to the throne, and in the event of his child's death might yet succeed him. A revolution in Belgrade would be disastrous to Servia. It would be easy to overthrow the little king who has no strong following. And this would make a breach for Russia, who, as everyone knows, has always wished to re-establish her influence in Servia. Austria, on the other hand, could not look on at such a change unmoved. She holds Milan in reserve as a last card. If the Russophiles were to overthrow the reigning child king, Alexander, and Russia hurl her troops into Servia on pretense of restoring order, Austria would be forced to make a counter-stroke, war would be declared, and from Servia it would spread all over Europe.

France, too, would be dragged into the quarrel. It would be impossible to prevent her from helping Russia. The Emperor of Austria, no doubt, had these grave contengencies in his mind when he let fall those pessimistic words the other day. In Paris, at all events, this is believed to be the real explanation of the imperial speech.

It seems sad that the lives of countless thousands of men should be endangered because King Milan is hard up and needs more money.

FROM PORTER'S CENSUS.

The Superintendent Quotes Himself Freely.

Progress Made During the Last Decade.

Some Valuable Information if True, But the Methods of the Bureau Casts Suspicion on All Its Results.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 23.—Mr. Robert P. Porter, superintendent of the eleventh census, made an address last night before the Commercial club of this city, in which he gave an extensive array of figures and facts concerning the marvelous growth of the country generally during the past decade in respect to its agricultural, commercial, manufacturing, mining and other interests. The following are extracts from his address:

The municipal, industrial and commercial life of the civilized nations has invariably centered on its great river or inland water cities. The river cities of the Loire, the Rhone, the Garonne, the Seine, have for centuries controlled the destiny and added to the splendor of France. The rich and powerful towns of Germany may be found along the fertile valleys of the Aller, the Elbe, the Rhine and on the Baltic; of Russia, on the Volga, the Danube and on the Black sea, while the secret of the wealth, power and commercial supremacy of Great Britain lies on the banks of the Clyde, the Tyne, the Severn, the Mersey and the Thames.

On the Hudson, the great lakes, the Delaware, the Mississippi, the Missouri, the Ohio, the Monongahela, the St. Lawrence, the Arkansas, the Tennessee, the Cumberland, the Sacramento, and a dozen other rivers have sprung into existence cities that give glorious promise before the century closes; cities that can claim tribute from areas as vast in extent as some European nations, and which are destined to become as populous and as opulent as the greatest centers of European population. At the rate of growth of the last decade the metropolitan district of New York will in 25 years exceed the metropolitan district of London, the area of the two districts being about the same, and the decade will bring the population of Chicago up to that of Berlin, of Philadelphia up to that of Vienna, and St. Louis up to that of the world's great emporium of commerce on the Mersey, Liverpool.

Mr. Porter read from the division of manufactures an interesting statement in regard to the woolen and cotton manufactures, which is made public for the first time. The following preliminary figures, subject to future correction, are for 1890. The figures show the advance of the woolen industries of the United States during the past decade:

Number of establishments, 2,963; increase, 274.

Number of sets of cards, 9,110; increase, 1,519.

Number of combing machines, 866; increase, 348.

Number of spindles, 3,357,587; increase, 1,109,592.

Number of looms, 74,690; increase, 21,879.

Number of knitting machines, 39,130; increase, 26,092.

Value of rolls and yarn, $35,906,387.

Value of shoddy and waste, $9,314,686.

Value of hosiery and knit goods, $66,205,942; increase, $37,038,715.

Total value of all woolen manufactures 1890, $344,299,666; increase, $77,046,753.

The year 1889-90 was a comparatively dull year in the woolen manufacture, and is now undergoing comparison with the year 1879-80, which is recognized as the most prosperous year this industry has ever known in the United States. Notwithstanding the increase shown, there has been a great reduction in the market value of woolen goods, running from 10 to 30 per cent., and hence the value of the product given for 1890 indicates a much greater quantity of production than the same value for 1880, or any previous year. These values are values at the mills, exclusive of commissions and expenses of sale department.

An advance table concerning the mill manufacture of cotton gives the figures for 1890 and increases over 1880, and shows the growth of this industry in the United States during the past decade. These figures are subject to possible increase from the fact that in mills wherein are manufactured woolen and worsted goods a number of cotton spindles are utilized, consuming raw cotton and producing cotton warps for use in mixed goods. The value of such materials, of the product, hands employed and all matters connected with these additional spindles will not appear as cotton manufactures until the textile industries shall be tabulated together, but nevertheless the spindles are entitled to be counted as cotton spindles:

The number of establishments in the United States is 912, increase, 156; hands employed, 222,982, increase, 48,323; bales of cotton consumed, 2,240,510, increase, 670,166; value of product, $257,764,529, increase, $85,674,419; number of spindles, 14,188,941, increase, 3,515,506; number of looms, 316,057, increase, 90,208.

The southern states may well be proud of this magnificent showing which I present to-night for the first time. These states are employing in their cotton mills nearly as many hands as Massachusetts did in 1870. In the ten years just closed they have more than doubled the number of persons employed and the value of their product, and have nearly trebled the amount of cotton consumed and the number of their spindles. The increase in the amount of cotton consumed has been greater in the southern states than in New England. This showing for the United States is most satisfactory. Nearly 50,000 more persons employed, an increase of $65,000,000 in value of product and of upwards of 3,500 spindles is a decennium progress we may all rejoice over.

A PRICE ON THEIR HEADS.

Workings of the Hatchet Society in New York.

A Band of Chinese Whose Sole Object Was to Kill the People Who Exposed the Fan Tan Games.

New York, Nov. 23.—Justice Divver, in the Tombs police court, continued the examination of Chin Tin, who is charged with having extorted $4 from Chin Six.

It was claimed for Chin Six that he had a fruit stand in front of No. 20 Mott street and that Chin Tin told him he could not keep his stand there any longer if he did not pay him $4, which was to be paid to the commissioner of public works.

The defendant's counsel claimed that the charge had been made against his client because he with Wong Ah Charles had exposed the fan tan and opium dens to the newspapers.

Five Chinamen, Chin Sam, Tom Dock Lung, Quong Sing Sin, Charley Goy and Chin Su, swore that a number of Chinamen had banded themselves into a "hatchet" society, the members of which were sworn to either kill Wong Ah Charles and Chin Tin or to send them to prison.

The society, witnesses swore, had offered these rewards: $3,000 for the death of Ah Charles, $2,000 for Chin Tin's death, $1,000 if either was sent to prison for more than ten years, and $500 if they were sent to prison for a shorter time.

Some of the witnesses swore that they had overheard a conversation between Lee Toy, the alleged leader of the conspiracy, and Chu Si, the complainant against Chin Tin, in which Lee Toy assured Chin Six that he would get the $500 reward for sending Chin Tin to prison on the charge of extortion.

Mark Schlessinger, an inspector in the bureau of encumbrances, testified that he served a dispossess paper on the owner of the stand, which Chu Si said was his, but that Chu Si was not the man he had served it on.

THE DAVIS MEMORIAL

Dedicated Yesterday by Bishop Leonard

At Trinity Church—Neat Piece of Work—Brief Description of the Same.

There was a large congregation at Trinity church yesterday morning to hear Bishop Leonard, who is much beloved by the people of Toledo.

Another event was the dedication by the bishop of the elegant memorial just placed in the church by Mr. George W. Davis in remembrance of his deceased wife.

This memorial consists of an elaborate Mosaic reredos of the church, just back of the altar. This splendid piece, which extends entirely across the church and about fifteen feet high, was designed and made by J. and R. Lamb, noted ecclesiastical designers, of New York city, and it surpasses by far any thing of the kind in this city.

The reredos consists of two large panels of beautiful Mosaic design, one on either side of the altar, while high up in the center is a smaller panel representing the Trinity, in which the figures are worked out in stone in a manner truly wonderful and the facial expressions are such as would seem impossible in work of that kind. On either side of this are smaller panels containing designs of Easter lillies, and the beautiful colors are blended in a most exquisite manner as if in a painting.

Under these three small panels is a long brass plate containing the following inscriptions: "A. D. 1891. Erected to the glory of God and in loving memory of Eunice H. Davis, born June 29, 1824, died February 18, 1891."

The wood work about the reredos is of carved oak and sets off the tiling with good effect. The whole adds much to the richness of the church and is a credit to the makers. It was placed in the church by John J. Stone, of this city, and his excellent work on it is also worthy of approbation.

The dedicatory services were conducted by the bishop in an impressive manner, and his sermon following was an especially strong one.

AMERICAN WHALE FISHERIES.

Quality and Value of the Product Brought In.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—An interesting statement has been prepared by the bureau of statistics of the treasury department, showing by customs districts the quantity and value of the whale fisheries taken by American vessels and fishermen, and brought into the United States during the year ending June 30, 1891.

Th largest items are sperm oil, other whale oil and whalebone. Ambergris is returned to the amount of only $22,000, and other products to the amount of $4,000.

New Bedford still retains her primacy in oil, but San Francisco has become the great port for landing whalebone, and her receipts represent the greater part of all the receipts of whale products.

The figures for 1891 are somewhat below those of 1890 in sperm oil, but show a small increase for all the items together. The receipts from sperm oil in 1890 were $331,080, and in 1889 were $379,257. The receipts of whalebone in 1890 were $415,654, and in 1889 were $510,916.

TO AID LAKE INTERESTS.

A Discrimination Against American Boats.

A Conference Will Be Held and an Effort Made to Smooth Out a Number of Wrinkles.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Ex-Senator Omar D. Conger of Michigan, has for some years been the representative for interests in lake commerce.

He was seen in regard to the protests that have recently been sent to Secretary Blaine from Cleveland, Chicago, Toledo, Buffalo, and other lake cities, relative to the discrimination by the Canadian government against American vessels passing through the Welland canal.

Mr. Conger said that nothing had been done, but it was understood that some time during the winter a conference would be held between representatives of the two governments to consider the various points at issue, involving the tariff, railroad traffic, and the shipping of the lakes.

The Welland canal matter would then be determined. He further said that Secretary Blaine had always shown a deep interest in our internal commerce, and would, without question, guard its welfare.

MR. BEATES' FAREWELL.

He Preaches to St. Stephen's Lutheran Church

Members Prior to His Departure for Salt Lake—The Duties of a Pastor—Substantial Testimonials.

In spite of the down-pouring rain the auditorium of St. Stephen's Evangelical Lutheran church, on the corner of Oliver and Harrison streets, was crowded at the morning service yesterday, the members attending to hear the farewell words of their beloved pastor, Rev. J. F. Beates.

After the usual opening services Rev. Beates announced his text, from Acts 20:32, and the farewell words of Paul to the Ephesians, "Now, brethren, I commend you to God, whose word of grace is able to build you up and give inheritance among them which are sanctified."

"We will turn aside from the weather-beaten path of church affairs and choose one more in accord with the occasion, and at the same time not violate the spirit of God's word," were the introductory words.

The sermon was full of interest and instruction from introduction to conclusion, and delivered with a feeling and earnestness that made the sorrow of parting greater than before.

The text was analyzed in a manner pure and simple, and the great truth and wisdom thereof set forth within the comprehension of all.

"The sorrow of parting is painful, but only momentary, and more than supplanted in the knowledge that I leave you in God's care, Whose great love is a shelter for all who have faith in His word, the word given in Scripture and preached by Paul to the Ephesians.

"The life and accomplishments of the Apostle Paul were briefly alluded to up to the time of his parting with his charge, the Ephesians, when the words of the text were uttered.

"It is thus with a Christian minister," said he; "if he has been true to God, earnest and untiring in his efforts to win souls to Him whose great love he represents, then in parting he can commend his charge to God. What a Christian minister accomplishes is attributed to God. He does not pause to boast of what good he has brought about, but continues on in God's work. Neither does he cast his flock off in the midst of wolves, but gently reminds them of God who will save them, and commends them to His care.

"Man would never have known of the great love of Christ," he continued, "had it not been for the word of God. His word is the great bond of union between God and man. It was thus why Paul commended the Ephesians to God, and if heed were given his admonition the wolves of error might howl around the threshold of their faith, and as long as they stood firm in their belief in God they would be protected from all harm."

Mr. Beates then spoke of the disaster befalling a congregation on the separation of a pastor on whom implicit faith had been bestowed, and on whom the congregation looked as an entertainer rather than a medium representing God's will.

"There is too much of an inclination to transform the pulpit into a lecturer's stand," said he. "The minister is hired and speaks for the congregation's temporary edification rather than to impress upon them the necessity of faith in God's word and the salvation of the soul. The congregation comes and listens, occasionally taking part in the singing of a hymn. When their pastor leaves and another equally entertaining is not obtained, interest dwindles and dismemberment follows. But how different it is with the minister who is the mouthpiece of God's word, who works to save the soul, and who is able to impress his congregation with the love of God. When he leaves there is no dark foreboding or dismemberment. He bids them farewell and commends them to God's love."

"Now, Christian brothers, what need I say further? Your pastor is about to take leave of you. He does so at the will of the Lord, as you all understand. Our relation as pastor and people are about to be severed. I trust this relation has been as pleasant to you as it has been to me. Now, we are about to separate. You go your way in the confidence and good will of God, I to do my duty in the great vineyard of God's love. Let me commend you to the love of God, to Him who loves us, who gave his only begotten son to save us, who receives us into his great family, who allows us to baptise in His name, to Him I would commend you. He can protect you at all times. By so doing you are safe, and I can go away feeling that His word is the light that will direct you. Another pastor will be sent to you and all I ask you is to be as true to him as you have to me, and at all times look onward and upward. We assemble here to-day for the last time, and it may be an eternal parting. Again I repeat, look onward and upward to the kingdom of Him who will receive you with open arms when the end comes. In conclusion I will say, I commend you to God, whose word of grace is able to build you up and give you inheritance among them which are sanctified."

Rev. Beates left last evening at 11:30 for Chicago, where he will remain until Tuesday, and then he will leave for Racine, Wis. Here, by request, he will deliver an address to the mission at that point. From there he will go to Milwaukee, where he will again address the mission. He will next visit at St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn., for a few days, and afterward will leave for Salt Lake City, Utah. His labor at this point will be confined mostly to Salt Lake City, with one or two charges near by.

The ladies of the congregation presented Rev. Beates with a fine pastorial robe, and the congregation gave a substantial purse of money, testimonials of their deep love and respect.

Some Nice Politics in the State of Maryland.

Senator Gibson Will Take the Four Thousand Dollar Gift and Then Support Gov. Jackson.

Washington, Nov. 23.—The friends of Senator Gibson, of Maryland, were talking to-day about the prospects of electing him in January to be his own successor, which they considered good.

Senator Gibson, however said yesterday, that he would content himself with his one month's term, with the $4,000 arrears of salary which goes with it. He said he would not be a candidate before the legislature.

More than this, Mr. Gibson said he would support Gov. Jackson in his candidacy for the senatorial office. "I am," he said, "for Gov. Jackson in every sense of the word. I aided him in the last campaign, and he has shown his appreciation of my efforts."

Senator Gibson insists that there was no deal between the governor and himself. Those who are interested in the mater say that the work was done by Senator Gorman, and that any understanding which was arrived at was between Gibson and Gorman, and not Gibson and Jackson. It is now said that Senator Gorman will undoubtedly support Gov. Jackson in his candidacy to succeed Senator Gibson.

"ENJOY BEING SALESLADIES."

But Do Not Enjoy Scenes Like That Given Below.

"We enjoy being salesladies, but we object, and that's putting it mildly, to the ways of some lady customers on very hot days," said a down-town saleswoman to the Boston Globe. "If they'd only strike us on a cool morning, but on a real heater, anything like the following is heart-rending:

"A portly, well-dressed, apparently sensible and well-educated lady comes languidly up to one of us and drawls:

"'I want some ribbon,' and then waits complacently, having an idea that we know all about the width, style, shade, quality and quantity of ribbon she wants. Then the catechism begins:

"'Yes; what color?'

"'Blue!' (with marked surprise.)

"'Light or dark?'

"'Let me see—some-er-light, I guess.'

"'Satin or plain?'

"'Plain.'

"'About what width?'

"'A little wider, I guess.'

"'About this width?'

"'How much do you want?'

"'Yes.'

"'Yes, ma'am, here it is. How much did you want?'

"'Yes; how much did you want?'

"'How much did you say it was?'

"'Eighteen cents a yard.'

"'How much did you want?'

"'Let me see. A yard—and a half—and then the piece to go round—and some to bind—and—a bow—and—well—dear me—I didn't measure and I declare I don't know—I'm sure—I really don't know how much I do want—I'll have to come imagain.'"

SECOND-HAND VICTUALS.

"Les bijou" are the remnants sold by cooks of large establishments and by first-class Parisian "restaurants." These are collected from door to door, and jumbled together in no very appetizing fashion; but the seller of the "bijoux" sorts and arranges the various articles, which are then properly "adorned," scraped and cut into neat pieces, nicely garnished and set out on clean plates. Customers who are brave enough to forget the antecedents of such danties may thus purchase for a trifle portions of the choicest game or the best fish served on high class tables, with many other delicacies of tempting appearance. Many old "rentiers" living in garrets and sunning themselves all day on benches in the public gardens, where they talk politics with their fellows, get really good dinners in this way.—Murray's Magazine.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, of New York, the well known and successful Specialists in Chronic Diseases and Diseases of the Eye and Ear, on account of their large practice in Ohio, have established the FRANCE MEDICAL INSTITUTE, where all forms of Chronic, Nervous and Private Diseases will be successfully treated on the most Scientific principles. DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, after years of experience, have discovered the greatest cure known for weakness in the back and kidneys, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart, timidity, trembling, dimness of sight, or giddiness, diseases of the head, throat, nose, or skin, affections of the liver, lungs, stomach, or bowels—those terrible disorders arising from the solitary vice of youth—and secret practices, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible. Take one candid thought before it is too late. A week or month may place your case beyond the reach of hope. Our method of treatment will speedily and permanently cure the most obstinate case, and absolutely restore perfect manhood.

TO MIDDLE-AGED MEN.—There are many from the age of 30 to 60 who are troubled with frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight burning or smarting sensation, weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examination of the urinary deposits, a ropy sediment will be found, or the color will be a thin or milkish hue. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is a second stage of seminal weakness. We will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—We have a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. In treatment of diseases peculiar to females, our success has been marked, over two-thirds of our patients being ladies, old, young, married, single, rich and poor. Our method is entirely free from objectionable features of the general practitioner, namely, "Local treatment." We seldom find it necessary. We prepare remedies, constitutional and local, as the case demands, and instruct ladies how to treat themselves.

M'KINLEY FOR SHERMAN.

Rumored That He Will Follow Secretary Foster.

Ohio's Governor Reported to be Preparing a Statement Indorsing the Mansfield Man.

Washington, Nov. 23.—When it was announced that Secretary Foster would take an early opportunity to declare in favor of the re-election of Senator Sherman several newspapers hastened to declare that there was no foundation for such a report, but the ink had hardly dried on their papers before the secretary made the announcement and thus put a stop to all speculation on the subject.

There are rumors to the effect that Governor-elect McKinley will shortly follow the example of Secretary Foster and declare his preference for Senator Sherman.

Of course, there are some who will declare that such a course would be unwise, but it is an extraordinary case. The fight in Ohio was as much against Senator Sherman as against Major McKinley.

It was the senator's Paulding speech, Sherman's friends say, which paved the way for a fight for the honest dollar, and his battle cry was taken up all along the lines and the enemy was completely demoralized.

Had the fight been confined to the tariff it is quite certain that the victory for the republican ticket would not have been so decided and it is among the possibilities that the democrats would have been able to hold one branch of the legislature.

As it was, Senator Sherman kept the financial question to the front and his vigorous fight made it impossible for the democrats to rally their forces in the state or to secure assistance from the outside.

In view of these facts it is not strange that Major McKinley should desire the recognition of Senator Sherman's services in the manner suggested.

It is true that he appreciates the campaign work of ex-Governor Foraker, but at the same time he recognizes the demands of the republicans of the entire country and is probably not inclined to turn a deaf ear to them.

The following patrolmen under command of Sergeants Conway and Blake will constitute the second drill squad and will drill each Wednesday evening from 6 to 6:45 p. m.: D. McCarthy, Coder, Langel, Zimes, Seigel, Mathews, Shaffer, Watson, Welch, Waters, McLain, Van Buskirk, Carl, Robe, Morrissey, Cooper, Farley, Dougherty, Lengendufer, Hassenzahl, Mullen, Crout, P. J. O'Brien, Streicher.

The following patrolmen under the command of Sergeant Marker constitutes the third drill squad: Schultz, Bliss, Lang, Coakley, Kline, Meddleton, Herman, Wegner, M. Brady, J. Brady and D. Sullivan.

By order of
EDWARD O'DWYER,
Chief of Police.

AS TO REGISTRATION.

Belief That once in Four Years Will Suffice.

Steps are being taken by the boards of elections of the several large cities over the state in the matter of procuring legislation providing for registration every four years, instead of annually, as the existing law requires.

This law as it now stands provides that in the cities of Toledo, Cincinnati and Cleveland citizens must register every year, while in other towns this action is taken only once in four years.

Secretary King of the board of elections, in speaking of the matter to a Bee, said: "The Toledo board of elections has the matter under consideration, and inasmuch as all benefits of the law now in force would be secured at considerable less cost, it is quite probable that our board will be willing to unite in a movement looking to an amendment of the law."

The plan is to have a general registration every four years, and the polls open two days before each election, that those who have moved and new voters may register.

NEW CITY PARKS.

One to be Established in Lower Town—Others in Contemplation.

The newly appointed city park commissioners are already considering several new park plans. One that will probably be adopted among the first is the enlarging of Riverside park on Lower Summit. The proposition is to buy or condemn Judge Nichol's large orchard, and thus extend the present park.

Inasmuch as the majority of the members of the commission live in lower town and the people thereof are desirous to have a park, it is probable the project will go through.

Neither Mr. Schenck nor Mr. Walbridge would commit themselves on the proposition when asked by a Bee this morning, but both had heard and thought favorably of the proposition.

In order to secure the 35 acres donated to the city by the will of the late Judge Collins, it will be necessary for the city to purchase 35 acres adjoining, and this the commissioners will consider at the earliest possible moment.

The board will organize the first Monday in December, and T. H. Walbridge will probably be elected president.

"Aren't you ever going to grow old, like the rest of us?" asked a man of an acquaintance he hadn't seen for some time. "Well, not so long as I can purify my blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla," was the apt reply. This man knew what he was talking about.

A verdant Pennsylvanian has been duped out of $3,500 by sharpers, who sold him two bars of nearly worthless metal for gold. He deserved his fate, however, for he thought he was driving a sharp bargain with an ignorant Indian, and was told by an alleged officer of the mint that the bars were worth $5,000. So he gave "Poor Lo" $3,500 and took his purchase to the mint, where his eyes were opened to the fact that he had been duped and not the poor Indian.

BARR WILL CASE.

The Master Commissioner Directed to Make Certain Deeds.

Cincinnati, Nov. 23.—Benjamin R. Cowen, under the decree in the Barr will case, has been directed to make and deliver to David M. Hyman and Paxton and Warrington, deeds to the premises held by them, the former paying $4,000 and the latter $8,000.

Emiline E. Bird, James R. Ely and Mary E. Miller were found entitled to the possession, each, of an individual one-eighth of one-sixth part of the land involved in the suit.

The clerk was directed to pay to Henry T. Fay and Samuel T. Crawford, attorneys, the sum of $4,500, being the amount of their client's interest in land as found by the court.

The action of the above-named parties is understood to be due to a belief that it would be better to settle than to increase costs by an appeal to a higher court.

NOTES FROM NORWALK.

Dr. Hildreth on Political Atheism.

Interesting Bits of Social Gossip Picked Up in the Maple City by a Bee Correspondent.

Norwalk, O., Nov. 23.—(Special)—At the request of many citizens Rev. Dr. T. F. Hildreth delivered a Thanksgiving address or sermon at Gardener Music hall Sunday evening to an immense audience, completely filling the large hall. He chose for the theme of the discourse "Political Atheism." He was inspired by his subject and with words of eloquence and much force he delivered a most masterly address, which was listened to with close attention by his many hearers.

THE CITY DADS.

Business Before the Councilmen for To-night's Session

The board of councilmen meet this evening, and while the schedule of business is not long there are several important matters to come before them. Most of these have been hanging fire for some time, and it is impossible to tell what will be done. The general street railway ordinance will be on hand. At last weeks meeting the aldermen refused to concur in the councilmanic amendments, and so the ordinance comes before the latter board again. If they insist upon their amendments it is killed. The Oliver street sidewalk and the ordinance to grant the Robinsons the right to construct a double track on Lawrence avenue are also on the calendar.

NOVEMBER CROP REPORT.

Splendid Results of the Late Harvest Shown.

Interesting Figures for Both the Producer and Consumer to Study—Where the Yield Was the Largest.

Washington, Nov. 23.—The November crop report issued by the Department of Agriculture, presents in corn, a sharp contrast with the record of November, 1890.

In the latter year the indications were that the yield would be 20 bushels per acre, while this year the apparent yield is fixed at 26 1-2 bushels.

The eastern and western ends of the corn belt, Ohio and Iowa and Nebraska, gave somewhat better yields than Indiana and Illinois, or Missouri and Kansas, the lower levels of the great corn belt suffering more from threatened drouth than the higher elevations.

The highest rate of yield, as estimated, appears in New England, from 35 to 40 bushels per acre. In the South the range is from 11 in Florida to 25 in Maryland, while in the surplus corn States the figures are as follows: Ohio, 33.7; Indiana, 32; Illinois, 31.2; Iowa, 36.7; Missouri, 29.9; Kansas, 26.7; Nebraska, 36.3.

Frost in August wrought some injury in the Northwest. In Wisconsin the yield is 26.7; Minnesota, 26.5; North Dakota, 27.2. Both drought and frost conspired to reduce the yield in South Dakota to 22 bushels.

Much of the crop is yet in the shock, and its condition and rate of yield may be somewhat better known after garnering and marketing, yet it is evident that the product will not be less than 2,000,000,000 bushels, or 31 bushels per unit of population.

The yield per acre of potatoes, as averaged from the county returns, is the largest reported in more than ten years past. For the whole breadth it averages nearly 94 bushels, and in many States it goes above 100 bushels. Exceptional yields of 120 and 125 bushels are reported as State averages, and phenomenal county results are returned. The season was generally favorable from the beginning, the unusual decline in condition which follows the trying weather of August and September being conspicuous by its absence this year.

The preliminary return of acreage in July showed an increase over last year's breadth, and in connection with the present return of yield would indicate a crop of nearly 100,000,000 bushels larger than last year, aggregating from 225,000,000 to 230,000,000 bushels, the largest ever grown in this country. The apprehension which has been expressed that the capability of our soil for potato production was declining is shown to be unfounded. With a return of favorable meteorological conditions the yield exceeds the record of previous good seasons.

CHASING THE TRAMPS.

How the Disreputable Characters are Being Driven Out of Town.

The police are keeping right on in their effort to rid the city of the disreputable characters that have been attracted here by the advantages of Toledo as a tramp winter resort, and several more suspicious persons were arrested yesterday and to-day. A number of the fellows arrested last week have been escorted outside the city limits and warned never to return, which warning they will probably heed after their experience in the city this time Others are serving time in the workhouse and charges are hanging over several of those now in prison.

Columbus, Nov. 23.—McKinley's plurality will be 21,501.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

A Young Man Placed Behind the Bars.

A Bootblack in the Role of a Highwayman Who May Have Trouble in Explaining His Case.

Youngstown, O., Nov. 23.—Andrew Krouse, a German laborer, residing at Hazleton, visited the city Saturday night, and at midnight, while returning home with a companion, both under the influence of liquor, they were attacked by two young men who demanded their money.

While his companion went for help, Krouse was beaten with a shovel, robbed and left dying on the railroad track.

He was removed to the hospital, where an examination showed he had been nearly scalped and brain matter was oozing from a terrible wound on the right side of the head. Surgeons have no hope of his recovery.

The police arrested Silas Harrington, aged 16, a bootblack, and he admitted having an altercation with Krouse, but claimed that a stranger whom he met struck the blow and then ran away.

SECRETARY FOSTER ILL.

Overwork Has Compelled Him to Go to Bed.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Secretary Foster has been confined to his bed by an attack of the grip, resulting directly from a bad cold which he contracted while in New York.

Dr. Cecil, his attendant physician, says the attack is also attributable in part to a need of rest from long continued mental strain, but there is no reason to doubt that the secretary will soon be restored to his usual robust health.

HOUK ELECTED.

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 23.—An election was held in this, the Second congressional district, Saturday, for a member to succeed L. C. Houk, deceased. The candidates were John C. Houk, republican, son of the late L. C. Houk, and Gen. J. C. Williams, democrat. Gen. Williams carried Knox county by a small majority, but Houk carried every other county, and his majority will probably be 7,500.

GOT AWAY WITH THE MONEY

Safe Blowers at Work in Columbus.

The "Black Prince" Made to Pay Tribute to the Knights of the Jimmy to the Tune of $2,500.

Columbus, Nov. 23.—A daring and successful safe robbery was committed at 2 o'clock this morning in the very heart of the city and under the glare of the electric lights.

John Alexander, known in sporting circles as the Black Prince, is out $2,500 by the job and the burglars are in possession of the bank-roll.

Alexander's place is on West Broad street, near High, and over the saloon of Gorman & Gahagan.

The burglars entered the house and leisurely proceeded to work. The examination revealed that the combination knob had been knocked off, letting the tumblers drop and affording an easy access to the inner doors of the safe, which were unlocked.

The drawers of the safe were found in the water-closet in which were left the cash-book and a large pocket-book, but not a cent of money. The cash-book showed $2,100 in cash had been taken, besides four watches and some certificates of deposit for several hundred dollars which the burglars will not be likely to try to negotiate.

There is no doubt as to the job having been the work of professionals, as all indications point to experts.

CAME TO TILL THE SOIL.

New York, Nov. 23.—Forty-five families of farmers from the German border of Russia arrived at this port per steamer Spaarndam. Each family averaged 10 members, all bound for North Dakota to form a settlement. They were strong, healthy-looking people, well supplied with money and apparently a desirable class of citizens.

IMPROVED FACILITIES.

The United Press Headquarters in Chicago Is a Beauty.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—The general Western office of the United Press in this city was moved from the old Herald building on Fifth avenue to the new Herald building on Washington street, Sunday, where they occupy a magnificent suite of rooms on the fourth floor.

Every instrument and piece of furniture in the operating room was manufactured by special order, and no other telegraph building in the country has duplicates of the machinery.

From the little push buttons on every desk and operating table in the rooms to the sturdy motor that furnishes battery power for the whole plant every thing was designed and made for this particular office.

There are bits of telegraph machinery here, too, that were invented to do honor to the new office. One of these is a combination sending set, on which one man can transmit on one, two, three, or four "legs" or wires at the came time.

Twenty loops run to the switchboard—ten from the Postal and ten from the Western Union campany's main offices. There are four sets of Button repeaters, which can be divided into eight single sets, three sets of automatic repeaters, two single wire sets, which can be used on duplex of quadruplex loops by throwing a switch, and one single line set.

Just received, fur edges in Beaver, Kimmer, Oppossum and Martin. Also beautiful Angora and Thibet, and muffler trimmings, at LAMSONS'.

ST. ANDREW'S CHAPEL.

Appropriately Dedicated Last Evening by Bishop Leonard.

The new St. Andrew's chapel, corner of Auburn and Milburn avenues, was dedicated last evening, Bishop Leonard delivering the sermon, which was very impressive and eloquent. Rev. Chas. Scadding assisted in the services and will have charge of the new chapel, which is entirely free from debt. The bishop remarked upon the rapid growth of the mission and congratulated the congregation upon their good work.

The chapel will hold about three hundred people, and there were nearly that many present last evening. The chancel was artistically decorated with chrysanthemums, and the altar cloths, which are of green and yellow felt, were made by the ladies of the church. The mission has been a very successful one, and the congregation rejoice in having so suitable a place for worship. The chapel is under the control of the vestry of Trinity church.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—The president did not announce the name of Secretary Proctor's successor Saturday, as it had been predicted he would. Indeed, it was announced that he had reached no conclusion, but that, inasmuch as the California republicans would not or could not unite on a candidate, Cheney would be apt to get it.

"Come in, stranger! Take a seat there
In that ol' spint bottom chair.
Things are not so very neat here—
Shu there, chickens! I declare!
Seems they can't keep out one minute
Less I give 'em all the scraps—
Kentry's nice; have ye been in it
Very long? Trav'ler, perhaps.
Er a neighbor of up kentry,
Lookin' cattle er stray sheep?—
Strange; but somethin' like a sentry
One must be to his stock keep.

"Ain't out lookin' stock? I guess then
Land is what ye're after here;
Soil is good, but timber's less than
What should be, an' lumber's dear;
One can't build a half a house here
'Thout a thousand dollars down;
An', if one would keep a spouse here
Nice an' tidy, he should own
Er have handy, heaps o' money—
Clothin' costs a mighty slight—
Don't ye want land? Wal! that's funny,
Seems I'm off, long ways, from right.

"Then it's work ye're likely wishin'?
Yet I hardly jest that guess.
Lookin' et thet cane ye're swishin'
An' yer ruther dudy dress—
Ye air dressed up right neat, stranger!
An' yer clothes fit tu a T—
Mos' tu nice for any granger;
Guess ye must a preacher be?
No; wal, tell me what ye're seekin'?
Relertives—wall, what kind, pray?
I have seen no strays a-streakin'
Thru these parts for many a day.

"Brother, likely—where ye frum, sir?
Michigan er ol' York State?
State of Maine, ye say's yer hum, sir—
My ol' home, I calkerlate—
Brother?—No?—Can't be a mother?—
Father!—wal, thet's quite a quest;
Seeh a sarch I guess I'd ruther—
Twenty years sence he went West!
Say, young man, what might yer name be?
John? Great Scott? John, what'd ye say?
I'd a John; can ye that same be?—
That very same! God bless this day!"

The fact that the czar of Russia recently donated $1,500,000 roubles to the starving Russian peasantry naturally provokes the inquiry where the money came from. Still we should recognize that the czar is entitled to as much credit for philanthrophy as the money kings of this country who make millions by gouging the public and then earn renown by giving millions to found public institutions.—Atchison Champion.

WHAT MAKES HAIR CURLY.

The difference between straight and curly hair is very apparent on a microscopical examination.

A hair is a hollow tube, and a straight hair is as round as a reed, while a curly hair is always flattened on both sides and curls toward one of the flat sides, never toward the edge. It is curious and little known fact that the hair of women is coarser than that of men, as well as thicker on the scalp.

In an average head of hair there are about 130,000 individual hairs.

THE LEADING EVENING DAILY OF OHIO

THE WEEKLY BEE, Sixty Cents a year, eight pages, eight columns each.

Home Office in New Bee Building, 326 St. Clair Street; New York Office, room 206, Potter building, opposite postoffice.

Telephones, Editorial 355; Counting Room 102

TOLEDO, OHIO, NOVEMBER 23, 1891.

Two weeks from to-day Calvin S. Brice will take the oath of office as United States Senator from Ohio.

Representative DeWitt, of Paulding, is put down in the doubtful column, though both Foraker and Sherman claim him.

Ex-Congressman Yoder, of Lima, will lead in the race for sergeant-at-arms of the house, and his prospects for election are flattering.

One of the hustling Sherman workers in Northwestern Ohio is J. P. Cameron, of Defiance, a cousin of Don Cameron, of Pennsylvania.

Judge King, of Youngstown, thinks the whole senatorial question rests upon his shoulders. How tired he must be holding the thing up.

The sentiment of this city is against renewing the contract with the tax sharks who already have driven hundreds of thousands of dollars away from Toledo.

The national democratic committee is called by Chairman Brice to meet in Washington on December 8 to fix the time and place for holding the national convention. Big politics is close at hand.

While fixing the congressional districts this winter, of course Brother Brigham, of last year's fame, will have a lightning rod way up. His ambition will never be entirely satisfied until he can say "three times and out."

Mr. Squire is undoubtedly sincere in saying he wouldn't accept any office within the gift of Gov. McKinley, but just mention influence for some other fellow and see how the foremost republican of Toledo will smile.

The gold coinage of the world last year was $113,220,524 and the silver coinage was $127,239,384. These democratic coins keep a very even pace, the world over. What's the need of making a row about it in this country?

Guy Comly, whom Toledoans know to be an exceptionally bright newspaper man, is to sever his connection with the Zanesville Times-Recorder, and will take up his chosen work in Washington. There is a bright future in store for Guy.

A member of the board of education in Cincinnati, has been fined in police court for owning and conducting a gambling shop. What kind of morals is at the tion of such a man to the board of education? Bender should be bounced.

The navy has an old salt who takes no stock in peace methods between nations. It is bluff old Admiral Luce, and he thinks a war occasionally does a nation good and is less costly than the civil way of doing things. Luce wants to fight before he is retired by law.

James W. Newman, ex-secretary of state, has sold his Portsmouth Times to Mr. Vallee Harold, of Illinois, and will retire from journalism for a time. Mr. Newman is wealthy and can afford to rest, but he is too good a newspaper man to long be out of the business.

It is the boast of Baltimore that it controls the greatest grain shipping market on the Atlantic coast. At present fifty vessels having a combined capacity of 3,000,000 bushels are chartered at that port for December and January. Maryland's metropolis has a population of nearly 500,000 and its business men, though conservative in methods are solid in wealth and active in enterprise.

A somewhat doubtful dispatch is printed to the effect that our Charley Griffin will withdraw from the spenkership contest in favor of McGrew, of Springfield, and that the race will be between Laylin, of Huron, a Sherman man, and McGrew, the representative of the Foraker interests. The dispatch is doubtful because Mr. Griffin never withdraws from anything. He either knocks out or is knocked.

The Dayton Journal says the Commercial-Gazette's "little insinuations and disparaging flings are not in the interest of party harmony," and that "the sting it inflicts upon the republican party will be felt for years." Such is the harmonious opinion of one republican editor of a brother in the harmony class of present politics. Keep it up, brethren, keep it up. Its lots of fun for us fellows in the gallery.

The Chicago Herald has just occupied its new building, one of the most complete structures for newspaper work in the country. The arrangement of the building is a marvel of elegance and convenience, and the whole is a monument to the excellence of the newspaper which made the erection of the building necessary. From the magnificent building, which the Bee recently erected and now occupies, congratulations are extended to the Chicago contemporary.

The Toledo chief tax inquisitor, Morgenthaler, holds a similar position in Cincinnati, and has just been allowed a commission of $20,200.37 on a big haul of over $80,000. It is said the income of this tax shark approximates half a million a year. It is also a matter of demonstration that he drives a hundred dollars out of Ohio for every one dollar he places in county treasuries. This negative phase of the situation ought to be considered when his contract with Lucas county expires next February.

Representative Griffin is urged to pass a law prohibiting piping natural gas out of the state. Just why such a law is necessary is unexplained; it would hardly seem to be necessary, as it is a well-established fact, fully demonstrated by one of Toledo's able trustees, that, 'the opinion of geologists to the contrary notwithstanding, nature is constantly replenishing the gas field." What's the use of being selfish? There is enough and to spare for everybody.

Congressman Springer will have a distinguished and remarkable delegation of workers in Washington in his race for the speakership. The splendid campaign of John M. Palmer for senator, in Illinois, is familiar to everybody—how one hundred and one democrats stood faithfully together for weeks and months until victory was honorably and gloriously won. These same gentlemen, the 101, will go to Washington in a body to labor for the other favorite son of Illinois, William M. Springer. They should meet a hearty democratic reception and their work for Mr. Springer ought to be very helpful.

It is said a careful survey of the present agricultural situation in Kansas warrants the assertion that in all sections farm lands have increased in value twenty-five per cent. within the past twelve months. If this be true it were vain for the republicans to say the astonishing political revolution of the farmers was not necessary or that the revolt was not beneficial. It requires such corrections occasionally to purify politics and get business out of a rut. The financial news from Kansas is certainly gratifying.

An estimate of the strength of the several candidates for speaker of the national house gives Mills 91, Crisp 90, Springer 33 and McMillan 16. Although Mr. Cleveland has publicly disclaimed working for Mr. Mills, it is generally understood that his friends in congress and Washington are helping the Texan. Senator Gorman and Gov. Hill are favorable to Crisp. McMillan develops very little strength, and Springer, as the only northern candidate, and enjoying the friendship of all classes, is in good position for success. The caucus promises to be long and exciting.

If Gov. Campbell was correctly reported by a New York interviewer he was entirely wrong in saying there are two factions among Ohio democrats, one being favorable to Cleveland and the other for anybody to beat Cleveland. There are no presidential factions in the Ohio democracy. The man who can carry the party to victory is the man whom the democrats of Ohio will gladly support. Many there are who think Mr. Cleveland is pre-eminently that man, but they are not tenaciously factious about it. Tariff reform and victory are the watchwords of Ohio democrats.

One of the chief offenses of railways, which gave rise to the inter-state railway commission, was the pernicious system of rebates which gave undue advantage to favored shippers, and which unjustly discriminated against certain commercial centers. The commission ought to have little trouble in establishing such offenses, and being established, the remedy of law should quickly follow. The petty system of allowing cartage in Detroit and Grand Rapids and not in Toledo, is a case in point which the commission is called upon to settle. The prosecution of this case by the Toledo Board of Trade will be watched with much interest.

There never was a senatorial campaign in Ohio when greater crimination was indulged by party workers than in the present contest between Sherman and Foraker. It is amazing to read some of the republican papers. One would think John Sherman was a boodler all his life, and that now in "decrepit old age" he has lost none of his cunning. The Sherman newspapers are more discreet and while they do not hesitate to say Mr. Foraker is not the man for the place at this time, they praise his republicanism and do not attack his character. The contest is more than warm; it is hot, and will leave some weak spots in the party organization of which democrats will not be slow to take advantage next year.

There is a gambling law in Massachusetts which gives any person the right to sue for money lost at gaming by any other person, provided the loser does not bring a suit within three months. Johnathan Bourne, of New Bedford, lost $16,000 in John Stetson's Boston place in 1889. He moved west without bringing suit to recover his money. Mrs. Anna Everett, no relative of Bourne, heard of the loss and sued Stetson for $50,000, three times the original loss and interest, as the law provdes. The case has just been settled without trial and the woman received the nice sum of $30,000 cash. That is a law as is a law, and if enforced would soon entirely destroy gaming. It would be a good law to enact in Ohio. There are several gambling hells in Toledo that ought to be brought up with just such a short jerk.

"Intense Americanism" is what a high tax Boston newspaper denominated the home market banquet which Major McKinley attended and addressed last week. That expression is a good synonym for "home market." Each is selfish in thought and restrictive in application, and neither is declarative of good business policy in a republic that boasts of principles of freedom and resources of boundless extent and wide diversity. A country where trade cannot expand beyond its own shores belongs to the dead past, and a country that will not try is not progressive enough to keep pace with the growth and development of the world of producers and buyers and sellers. "Home marketism" and "intense Americanism" belong exclusively to the republican party which fortunately is in the minority in most of the states of this country. And in even in that party it is difficult for the home marketers to reconcile their pet theory with the later reciprocity attachment of Mr. Blaine, which, if it means anything, is the reverse of such "intense Americanism" as would make the home market the desideratum of American tradesmen.

THE AMERICAN HOG ABROAD.

It is to the quadruped this paragraph relates, not to the biped that is everywhere, in spots. Our pig has found an advocate and defender in the person of Prof. Von Pettenkofer who writes to the Frankfurter Zeitung that not a single authentic case of trichinosis traceable to American pork is reported in Europe. The professor maintains that the process of killing, curing, packing and shipping, peculiar to American dealers, would destroy any parasites that might be in the pork long before it reached the other side of the water. Prof. Fettenkofer points to the consumption of American pork in England and Scotland as proof that he is right in theory. After this defense of our hog, the grunter can take courage and wiggle his little tail for more corn.

STRENGTHEN THE LAKE SERVICE

On Saturday the Bee referred to the coming convention in Detroit in the interest of improving the channels of the lakes and rivers. It will be held on the 17th of December, and representative citizens of half a dozen states will be invited and urged to be present. The desirability of united action before congressional committees and in congress cannot be too strongly dwelt upon. The congressmen from New York, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin, whose constituents are directly interested, can influence favorable legislation if they act together. And this leads to a suggestion to the republican legislature of Ohio which is worthy of consideration. In all probability Ohio will be redistricted for congressional purposes. At present four districts in this state touch upon the shores of Lake Erie. They might easily be arranged to give the marine interest six congressmen, an increase of two, without disturbing political calculations at all. This is a very important matter and should be taken up understandingly and with determination. No doubt the republican business interests of Toledo, Port Clinton, Sandusky, Huron, Cleveland and Ashtabula would heartily unite upon some plan having the above object in view. The Ohio counties skirting the shores of Lake Erie should take the initiative in this matter. If successfully carried out the increased marine delegation in congress from Ohio would stimulate the other states along the lakes to similar action, and the representatives of this mighty water way, the greatest in all the world, would be able to set forth the demands of lake traffic and be in position to command appropriations for all necessary improvements. The suggestions herein contained are respectfully referred to the three representatives in the legislature from Lucas county. The Sandusky Register and the Cleveland Leader could do much in moulding legislative sentiment in this direction. There ought to be six congressional districts touching the shores of Lake Erie.

HOW THEY STAND.

The republicans of Toledo hear so much about the Foraker campaign through the evening organ of hate that many may possibly think republican sentiment in all parts of Ohio is substantially the same. The newspapers generally represent the the opinions of their readers, and it may be interesting to note how the republican newspapers of Ohio stand on the senatorial question. A Jolly Candidate.

Thomas G. Jones, the able democratic governor of Alabama, is a candidate for renomination, and last week made a canvass of the mining towns in Jefferson county, in north Alabama. At the Blue Creek mines Friday evening last Gov. Jones addressed 1,200 miners in a spacious hall. After the speaking a grand dance took place, which was led by the governor and Mrs. Johns, wife of Superintendent L. W. Johns of the mines. The governor danced with several of the miners' wives and daughters and cut all the figures. He proved to be a most accomplished dancer and caught the crowd. Several ladies expressed a desire to kiss the governor. He gave them all the kisses they wanted.—Baltimore Sun.

Cleveland or a Western Man.

The general understanding has been, though how far it is authorized nobody knows, that New York differences are substantially composed. Mr. Flower is governor-elect, Mr. Hill is senator-elect, and Mr. Cleveland will in due time have the voice of New York as a presidential candidate. If this shall not be so, and choice must be made of other than a New York citizen, with proper respect for Russell and Massachusetts it will be remarked that the valley of the Mississippi, now the great seat of political power, will have something to say upon the subject of a candidate.—Chicago Times.

Where the Strain Comes.

General Clarkson fears that if the democrats control the New York legislature they will change the mode of choosing presidential electors. "It would be something revolutionary," he says, "but still within the pale of law." It is a little early to speculate on the action of the New York legislature, but a revolution "within the pale of the law" would be all right. It is the Reed revolutions outside the pale of law and the precedents of centuries that strain the pillars of the temple.—Philadelphia Record.

THE NATIONAL CONVENTIONS.

It would be well for the country if the republican leaders would decide to hold a national convention nowhere.—Courier Journal.

This is the pivotal city of a pivotal state. Buffalo's desirability as a convention city cannot fail to impress the committee if our claims are properly presented.—Buffalo Express.

Boston is the city in which should be held the convention to nominate the next president of the United States. No national democratic convention has been held in Boston heretofore. It has been a hostile country. Now it is friendly. The conditions have changed.—Boston Post.

The demand or invitation of Pittsburg for a national convention can not be looked upon seriously. That city could supply no accommodations for the people who would attend such a gathering, a convention of national importance.—Harrisburg Patriot.

The Boston Post asks that the democratic national convention shall be held in Boston. Boston is the admitted hub of the universe; but it is not the geographical center of the union. However, if convenience or nearness to the center of population is not to be consulted, the Record votes for Boston.—Philadelphia Record.

There are forty-four states in the union, each of which would require headquarters at a national political convention. Where are the places in both Pittsburg and Allegheny City that would be suitable headquarters for one-fourth the number? The enterprising gentlemen who are doing the talking and writing about getting the republican national convention for Pittsburg have bitten off more than they can chew.—Pittsburg Post.

The Omaha delegation sent to secure the republican national convention are sure they will win the day; the Minneapolis delegates do not see how it is possible for them to lose, and the San Francisco embassy say they will carry off the plum if dash and ducats have any influence with the committee. In the meantime Chicago "says nothing but saws wood." It is the silent hog that gets the most swill.—Chicago Herald.

The principal contest seems to be between Omaha and San Francisco. The former city has been spoken of for some time, and quite favorably. No national convention has ever met so far west, but the center of population is rapidly changing, and with the bringing in of six new states, all of them probably republican, in the next contest, and all located west of Missouri, there seems to be a general disposition to favor the selection of some city representative of the western half of the continent.—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

STYLE IN ADVERTISING.

A Toledo Boy Gives Good Advice to Advertisers.

F. W. Thomas of Toledo, a graduate of our high school and at one time in the Bee job office, now proprietor of "The Electric Press," contributed the following interesting article to a late issue of the American Art Printer:

Judging from the success achieved by the men who make a specialty of setting up advertisements, and the amount of patronage received by them at splendid prices, it would seem but fair to infer that the "average" printer is not a success in this line.

The subject of advertising is being given more careful attention to-day than ever before. It is destined to become still more important; and every young man who desires to make of himself a thoroughly competent job compositor should aim to become proficient in this line. It is a kind of talent which will hold valuable trade for his employer, and hence render his own position more secure.

A few suggestions in this line may be of use.

Endeavor, if possible, to get some idea of your customer's idea. He understands his business better than you do, and you had better start with what he thinks and then aim to carry out his idea in the style of your "ad."

Always use type with an element of novelty and newness in it, if possible.

Never use type which is fancy to such an extent as to be unreadable or indistinct.

The old idea of using nothing but plain gothics has been discarded by the best advertisers. Such an "ad" is readable enough if a person's eye is once caught by it; but it contains nothing of a distinctive character, and hence loses half its value.

If you are given a copy for an advertisement, and left entirely to your own ideas, the following suggestions, if carried out, will improve it.

An appropriate cut, placed in an attractive manner, doubles the value of an "ad." If you have such a cut, use it. Then select your catch lines. Those words which are so placed in your advertisement as to possess the most force, and display them in the oddest and most original manner you know how. All the rest of the matter even to the firm's name can be set reasonably small.

Do not try to make every line large. That will do for a poster which people are expected to read from a distance. Artistic advertising is a different thing.

Space in newspapers costs money, and carefully studied composition is economy in the end, and is due the patrons of the paper.

Bear in mind to make your advertisement attractive, novel, clean and clear-cut. Never use an ornament unless it will add decidedly to the effectiveness of the design. Ornaments fill up what would otherwise be white space, and white space is an important factor in the attractiveness of an advertisement.

A young man who is really in earnest in his desire to improve will be willing to spend a few dollars for such knowledge as can be obtained by subscribing for and studying such papers as Printers' Ink, the King's Jester and his own trade journals particularly.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

No matter how late it is Mr. Gladstone always reads an hour before he goes to bed.

Robert Hoe, Jr., of printing press fame, has a penchant for old and curious engravings. He has already collected $500,000 worth, but he can afford it.

R. C. Kerens, the well-known St. Louis politician, is chairman of the committee of arrangements for the golden jubilee of Archbishop Kenrick.

The longest congressional career in the history of the country was that of Gen. Samuel Smith, of Baltimore, who for forty years was continuously in congress as representative or senator.

Dr. Anna Epstein, a Russian woman, has been appointed the official city physician by the council of Pozarevatz, in Servia. So far as is known she is the first woman so honored in Europe.

Miss Mary Smith, of Whitesburg, Ga., is the proud possessor of a bed-quilt quilted over 100 years ago by Miss Taylor, a niece of Gen. Zachary Taylor, who picked and spun the cotton of which it is made.

George D. Goodell, one of California's earliest white settlers, died a few days ago in Pomona, Cal., at the age of 97. He was, it is said, a drummer boy during the war of 1812, and was wounded at the battle of Lundy's Lane.

Miss Anna Dickinson is sadly broken in health, and her mental trouble is not improving. There is but little in the unhappy and haggard appearance of the lady to suggest the brilliant-minded and forceful woman Anna Dickinson was twenty years ago—or five.

Mrs. Francis Hodgson Burnett has founded an asylum for newsboys in Drury Lane, London, in memory of her dead son Lionel, the original of "Little Lord Fauntleroy." It is called Lionel's Home, and Mrs. Burnett will devote to its maintenance a generous portion of her income.

A new novel, called "A Widower Indeed," by the popular English author, Rhoda Broughton, written in collaboration with an American, Miss Elizabeth Bisland, is shortly to be published in D. Appleton's & Co.'s Town and Country Library.

DR. CRAVENS' LECTURE.

To the Editor: The audience which assembled Saturday night at Memorial hall, to hear Dr. Cravens was quite large, indicating plainly that the immortal bard has a large number of students and admirers in this city.

Dr. Cravens handles his Shakesperian subjects admirably and powerfully. His discourse was simply beyond criticism—wonderful! The prevailing opinion being that it was incomparably above anything of the kind, unless we except his first lecture, that has yet been delivered in Toledo.

Mr. Ingersoll lectures on Shakespeare, receiving large recompense and crowded houses. That he is original, brilliant and entrancing, goes without saying, but lacking the keen, analytical mind, it is assumed that he has never sounded the profound depths of Shakespeare's genius to the degree and quality of Dr. Cravens. A comparison of the Shakesperian lectures of Ingersoll and Cravens, seem to be to the latter's advantage, indicating a more perfect and exact understanding in the science of mental philosophy; indeed, I believe that Dr. Cravens' exegesis ranks him as the peer, if not superior to Dr. Johnson, Goethe, or Coleridge in critical acumen and clear interpretation of the motives, mysteries and beauties of the tragedy of Hamlet.

That Toledo has regained its appellation of "the smoky city," since its manufacturing establishments have returned to the use of coal.

That the High school senior class has a committee out in search of a class pin, and jewelers are doing their neatest in preparing designs.

That the honor of being commander of the Grand Army posts in Toledo is causing some lively hustling among the friends of different aspirants.

That all of the counties adjoining Lucas propose to boycott it in the make-up of the new congressional district. What's the matter with letting Lucas go it alone?

That there is considerable disappointment because Gov. Campbell will not be present at the Elks' banquet to-night. The governor is now in New York on business.

That John Kumler ought not to be so hard on federal office holders, since it is not so long since he was one himself. He was a pretty strong Sherman man those days himself.

That the new station at Dorr street crossing has proved a very satisfactory investment to the railroad people, as it has a local convenience to residents in that part of the city.

That the spring campaign for office among the republicans has commenced rather soon, and it is freely predicted that the fable of the early bird will fail to materialize with several would-be's.

THE PANTHER IS SAFE.

Good News Received from Her at Duluth.

Saturday Captain Hubbard received a dispatch announcing the safe arrival of the steamship Panther at Duluth. It was a great relief to the owners and relatives of the crew. This morning a letter was received from the captain in which he states that the vessel lay for upwards of a week off White Fish Point, not daring to venture out in the storm that was raging.

The Panther left Toledo with only a partial cargo of coal, and she rolled so in the heavy sea in consequence that the captain thought it the wiser course to "lie to" until the weather settled somewhat.

A Pasteur institute was opened June 1 at Saigon, Cochin China, under the auspices of the French government. The work of the institute will extend over the whole field of microbiology.

One of the Reasons.

The anxiety of the high tariff organs to make the best possible showing for the tin industry may be due to the provision of the McKinley bill making tin plate free after Oct. 1, 1897, unless the home output to some intervening year shall equal one-third of the total amount imported in any fiscal year following the adoption of the new tariff.—Chicago Herald.

A WOMAN'S BATTLE.

Dear foe, I know thou'lt win the fight,
I know thou hast the stronger bark,
And thou art sailing in the light,
While I am creeping in the dark.
Thou dost not dream that I am crying,
As I come up with colors flying.

I clear away my wounded, slain,
With strength like frenzy, strong and swift;
I do not feel the tug and strain,
Though dead are heavy, hard to lift,
If I looked in their faces dying,
I could not keep my colors flying.

Dear foe, it will be short—our fight—
Though lazily thou train'st thy guns;
Fate steers us—me to deeper night,
And thee to brighter seas and suns;
But thou'lt not dream that I am dying,
As I sail by with colors flying!

It was of cylindrical shape and was carefully wrapped in flannel.

Gordon Conkling, of Glens Falls, N. Y., has bet $500 with ex-Register John Reilly, of New York, that the next president will not be the nominee of the democratic national convention, and ex-Congressman Tim Campbell is the stakeholder. Mr. Reilly says he is ready to raise the bet to $50,000 any time Mr. Conkling desires to put the money up.

It must require a person of unusual and varied accomplishments to fill acceptably the office of secretary for Ireland. Here are the qualities which the London Standard deems indispensable: It wants a man with good sense, steadiness of purpose, geniality, courage, sense of humor, coolness, vivacity, firmness, liveliness, strength, modesty, capacity of inspiring confidence, not exceptional genius, and reliability in carrying out Mr. Balfour's policy.

There died at the little fishing village of Port Penn, Del., the other day, Shubert Burrows, a brother of Rube Burrows, the outlaw. Shubert was a deserter from the confederate army, and afterward a member of Rube's outlaw gang. For the last twelve years he had lived alone in a cabin on the Delaware shore and maintaind himself by fishing and trapping. He was buried the day after his death, and after the funeral expenses had been paid out of the $110 realized by the sale of his possessions the rest of his fortune went to charity.

Of late years steps have been taken to prevent the destruction of forests by fire in certain districts of India. This care has had one curious result. Cover and water, which vanished with the timber, have again become common, and there has consequently been a large increase in the number of tigers. For the same reason there has also been an enormous increase in the number of wild deer. In one sense it is fortunate that the deer have grown in numbers with the tigers, for the latter have preyed upon them instead of upon cattle and human beings. When, however, they shall have scared away the deer, or have become tired of venison, they will probably prowl around villages and play havoc with cattle, besides killing their man or two.

TOLEDO INSANE ASYLUM.

Superintendent Tupper Talks About It,

And Says it is an Ably Managed Institution.

Economical, Healthy, Progressive and Way Up to Date—That's What the Doctor Thinks, and He Tells the People Through the Bee.

To the Editor: Recognizing the Bee as the most extensively read newspaper within the Toledo district and knowing the kindly interest it has always manifested in the welfare of patients brought to this institution for treatment, I regard its columns the most appropriate channel through which to communicate to their many friends and relatives, and the generous residents of the state who have assumed the obligation of their care, a few significant facts, showing the practical management and control for the past year, during which so much has been published by an unfriendly neighbor press, calculated to disturb and alarm both wards and their benefactors; being really libelous to an honorable board of trustees, whose central purpose it is to provide the best for the patients' benefit and the honor of the noble charity assumed.

Our records now being arranged into a detailed report for the year ending November 15, 1891, show a greater number cared for, a greater average under treatment, fewer admissions, more recoveries, a greater number discharged improved, a less ratio discharged unimproved, fewer deaths, as few suicides and homicides than any year's records show since patients were admitted into this institution; notwithstanding the fact that all the chronic and infirm holdovers, not only belonging in the district, but the transfers from Newburgh, Dayton and Columbus are included, which cripple the report.

The records also show a less ratio of deaths, a greater percentage of recoveries, as few losses by escapes, a larger number of successful important surgical operations than any annual report since the opening of the institution contain. They also show a larger current expense account and a decisive reduction in the per capita cost, including officers' salary, than any previous report; notwithstanding the notorious fact that we were compelled to pay from 2 to 2 1-2 cents a pound more for beef, and double the price for potatoes, and a higher price for flour than such articles cost for two or three years before.

Our clothing account has also been larger than any previous year, showings which are not mere assertions, but recorded facts. Nor is it reasonable to presume that such exhibits are results of accident, instead of evidences of intelligent care, treatment, and supervision, in which the friends of patients, as well as payers of bills rendered own a personal interest.

Such a record is not only gratifying to the management, but it is believed and advocated, an argument for changes in control. Such arguments are as numerous and varied as are the experience and capabilities of individuals. One's disasters, sickness, and betrayal, and his means of retrieving, healing and counteracting them, makes him peculiarly competent for like adversities. The closer such life experiences come to us and our loved ones, the deeper interest we take, and the greater ingenuity do we display in the methods of repair and recovery. No intelligent, observing man or woman need be told that the same workman in the same work soon gets into grooves, and after a time a much better way is with difficulty taken up, or acknowledged by the plodder in the old ruts made smooth by wear rather than by merit.

The question of the best way to care for and reclaim those whose conditions appeal to the more fortunate for help, is not only grave and perplexing, but as yet unsolved. The person honestly engaged in such work is, not only willing that other minds and hearts should try their hands in such labors of love, but should incite and assist in securing new supervision and new appliances of thought and experience. Our civilization is too young and childlike to set up the claim of approximate perfection even in modes of living and control of the provident and manageable, saying nothing of the improvident and insane. One's first year's teaching is often more instructive than it is when formulated into modes of greater precision by long continued usage.

Having great faith in the unexpected if it but contemplates a change, the present management hopes for the best in all things.

C. E. TUPPER,
Superintendent.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

"Carmencita," the Charming Dancer, at Wheeler's

To-Night—Opening of "A Night at the Circus" at the People's—The New Comedy, "Jane."

La Carmencita, who is undoubtedly the sensation of the present theatrical season, appears at Wheeler's to-night. This famous dancer held New York sweltdom at her feet for seventeen months. In her dances to-night she will be assisted by "The Spanish Students" from the Royal Conservative, Madrid. They also appear in a classic music program of their own. The company of students are under the leadership of the noted Spanish musician, Senor Pablo Eschepare. The balance of the song program is furnished by Koster and Bial's high-class vaudeville company, comprising the highest salaried specialty artists from the London, Paris and Berlin theatres. A noted dramatic writer says of La Carmencita:

"There is a story in her movements. It is a romance—a romance more intense, more sensuous, more blood-heating and care-defying than the most audacious and notorious French novel. But it is sensuous without sensuality; it is heating without burning to ashes; it is care-defying without boast; intoxicating without baneful effects and the need of soda. There is in that dance the blended blood, the inheritance of ages. There is the pride of the Castilian, the imperiousness of queens, the defiance of warriors, the challenge of swordsmen, the gallant grace of cavaliers; the coquettishness of beautiful senoritas behind their fans and latticed casements; the voluptuousness of the ripe woman, the enticement of the siren; the abandonment of the magdalen—all in turn, all blended; and yet one picture after another is presented with such swiftness, such brilliant, sparkling, kaleidoscopic effect, that the memory of one is lost in the other, and after all is over, instead of one being impressed upon the mind, it all remains as a confused, but beautiful and striking picture.

Nellie McHenry.

A Night at the Circus (the greatest show on earth, and if you don't believe it go read the bills), will be the attraction this evening at the People's theater. Accomplished Nellie McHenry will be the bright star around whom will revolve a company of the funniest comedians ever seen in Toledo. The play will give everybody in it a chance to display his or her ability, so that there can be but little doubt as to the result. In A Night at the Circus everybody gets a chance. It isn't the star who is taken into account, it is the audience. It is to make the people laugh and be happy that the piece tends entirely to. And the object is fully accomplished.

Miss McHenry's accomplished husband, John Webster, plays the funniest part of his life. So does Ben Lodge, so well known the country over as a first-class comic opera comedian. So does young Jack Gilroy, who to-day is one of the peerless dancers of America. So does every member of the company. Of the star the New York Herald says: "Nellie McHenry made the hit of her life last evening. A Night at the Circus is a distinguished success—a positive triumph in comedy farce."

The New York World, in referring to the production, says: "Grattan Donnelly, the author of A Night at the Circus, and sprightly Nellie McHenry, the star of the piece, are to be congratulated on having secured the best comedy of the season."

Jane.

There is only one word to use to express the business Jane has done since it was first presented at the Madison Square theater, New York, after a run of over 400 nights in London, and that word is "wonderful." After Jane's prosperous run of 150 performances the road tour was begun at Baltimore Monday night two weeks ago to the most fashionable audience ever in Ford's theater in that city. After the Tuesday performance the orchestra was compelled to play from the stage, the demand for seats being so enormous that extra chairs were placed in the theater each evening. The advance sale for the Pittsburg week was the largest known in the history of the Alvin theater. Jane will be produced at Wheeler's opera house Wednesday evening, and a big house is already assured.

Condemnation Suit in the Courts—Spicy Newslets from the Brilliant City.

Findlay, O., Nov. 23.—(Special)—A special jury has been drawn to try the condemnation suit of the Findlay, Ft. Wayne & Western railroad v. the syndicate which owns the old Fair grounds. It will be tried this week. The company is very anxious to get this property as they want a direct air line through the southern part of the city, so they can extend their line east to Greenwich, O.

Sudden Death.

Word has been received here of the sudden death of Samuel Collingwood, a pioneer resident of this county residing near McComb.

Improving the Gas Plant.

The entire gas supply of Findlay was cut off yesterday to allow the workmen to connect the new 12-inch mains from the outside field with the city gas lines. When this connection is made it is thought Findlay will be fixed better than ever for a bountiful supply of nature's fuel.

Newslets.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Davis have celebrated the twentieth anniversary of their marriage at their home on East Main Cross street.

Invitations have been issued for a reception to be given by Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Freuels and Mrs. David Joy at the palatial home of the former on the 12th inst.

Edward, the son of Peter Price, residing west of the city, has died of spinal difficulty. He has been a great sufferer for several years past. His age was about 20 years.

Mrs. Caroline McFarland, an aged lady, died at the home of her brother, D. W. Abbott, on East Hardin street, aged 79 years. The remains were taken to Mineral Ridge, O., for burial.

The regular politicians of both parties are already at work and busy arguing and talking spring politics. It is said many heads in all departments of the city government are to be guillotined by the ballot. There is plenty of time, however, to settle the matter.

AT THE HARVEST OF DEATH.

Much grain is prematurely reaped by the scythe of disease that might have ripened to a golden maturity if "minor" bodily troubles had been attended to in time. Nothing is truer than this—bodily ailments not only grow apace, but beget one another. Thus biliousness, constipation, dyspepsia follow close on the heels of one another, flourish together, the one perpetuating the other, and begetting a numerous progeny of later ailments more or less severe as their cause is more or less disregarded and neglected. Incipient rheumatism, malaria and "slight" inactivity of the kidneys, of what dire disaster they are the cause when no or but slight attention is paid to their early warnings. Check these "minor" ailments with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters and forestall the inexorable reaper, who exacts the forfeiture of life as the penalty for disregarding the means of preserving it.

Rodenberg and Rodenberg, his wife, whose Christian name is unknown, believed to reside in Columbus, in the state of Missouri, will take notice that on the 19th day of October, 1891, the city of Toledo for the use of John S. A COLUMN OF SMILES.

The London Journal of Education says that a Prussian school inspector appeared at the office of the burgomaster of a little town to ask him to accompany him on a tour of inspection through the schools.

The burgomaster was out of sorts, and was heard to mutter to himself, "What is this donkey here again for?"

The inspector said nothing, but waited his time, and with the unwilling burgomaster set out on his tour. At the first school he announced his wish to see how well punctuation was taught.

"Oh, never mind that," said the burgomaster. "We don't care for commas and such trifles."

But the inspector sent a boy to the blackboard, and ordered him to write, "The burgomaster of R—— says, the inspector is a donkey."

Then he ordered him to transpose the comma, placing it after R——, and to insert another one after inspector, and the boy wrote, "The burgomaster of R—, says the inspector, is a donkey."

It is probable that the refractory official gained a new idea of the value of "commas and such trifles."

Stage Definitions.

Hero—A virtuous young man who is such a fool that he walks into traps that a day-old blind kitten would avoid.

Heroine—An exemplary young woman who gets turned out of doors because she refuses to marry the villain.

Villain—The average man; only he gets found out in the last act, and is either killed or sent to prison for life.

Super—A person who is put on the stage to fill up; one who doesn't know what to do, and gets 25 cents a night for not doing it.

Appropriate Names.

"So you have got twins at your house?" said Mrs. Bezumbe to little Johnny Salvelson.

"Yes, mam, two of 'em."

"What are you going to call them?"

"Thunder and Lightning."

"Why, those are strange names to call children."

"Well, that's what pa called 'em as soon as he heard they were in the house."—Texas Siftings.

The Courtship of a Clerk.

Briggs—Did you hear about Miss Grosgrain? She has married a dry goods clerk. They met, he woo'd and won her, and so they were married.

Griggs—Why, when did this all happen?

Briggs—While she was waiting for the change.—Cloak Review.

Great Advice.

Doctor (to first patient)—Suffering from indigestion, eh?

"Yes, sir."

"How about tobacco?"

"Well, I smoke."

"Ah, and you'll have to give it up."

Same doctor (to second visitor)—Stomach trouble, eh?

"Yes, sir."

"How about obacco?"

"I don't use it."

"Well, you'd better smoke."—Arkansas Traveler.

How He Came by His Name.

There is a man in Washington who has a most uncommon name, and a paper in the city tells how he came by it. His mother was on the lookout for something original and one day, before his christening, she noticed on the door of a building the word "Nosmo."

This struck her fancy. Now for a middle name. Later, coming along by the same building, she saw on the door the name "King."

Ah, this was what she was after. "Nosmo King Jones he shall be," she said, and he was christened so. On the way home from the church she passed the same building again.

The doors were all shut, and behold! the doors with the names on them she had selected were shut together, and she read, not "Nosmo King," but "No Smoking," and her heart was broken.

Citizens Only.

The desirability of care in expression can hardly be too forcibly impressed upon those who write advertisements, circulars and public announcements of all sorts.

A very peculiar effect was produced by the following announcement, contained in the advertisements of a county fair:

"Among other attractive features of this great fair there will be highly-amusing donkey-races and pig-races.

"Competition in these two contests open to citizens of the county only!"

Too Absent-minded.

Citizen—I never see Captain Magood around any more.

Policeman—He's not on the foorce any more. Got put out.

"Well! well! What for?"

"Absint-mindedness."

"Absent-minded, was he?"

"Yis, sor. He raided a gamblin' den an arristed a whole crowd o' city officials."

"But they shouldn't have been there."

"Av coorse not. He was so absint-minded he forgot to give them notice."—Street & Smith's Good News.

Troubled with Paresis.

Radder—"What's the matter with you this morning, old chap? I never saw you in such a brown study. Anything troubling you?"

Adder—"I should say there was. I brought matters to a climax last evening with Miss Bonbon—actually proposed to her—and failing to make a note of her answer at the time I'm blamed if I can remember now whether she accepted me or not."—Boston Courier.

"Ign-ance."

A Georgia paper, the Quitman Free Press, tells a story of the odd result of an old negro's attempt to use a big word. The old man was up before Judge Gerry, of Dawson, charged with small offense.

"Have you a lawyer?" the court asked.

"No, sah."

"Can't you get one?"

"No, sah."

"Don't you want me to appoint one to defend you?"

"No, sah; I jes' t'ot I'd leabe my case o de ign'ance ob de co't."

Elder Goodman's dislike of tobacco amounted to a positive aversion. He detested it in every form; but most of all he hated the cigarette. He would have no one in his employ, and as far as he could, he would have no one in his presence who ever smoked one.

In season and out of season—if such a thing is possible—he inveighed against the cigarette, and dilated on its deadly work. His repugnance to the thing itself grew in time to include those who used it, until he came to look upon every cigarette-smoker with more or less suspicion.

He was present at an anti-tobacco meeting one night, when the speaker in due turn took up the cigarette. "Friends," he exclaimed, "this innocent-looking little roll of tobacco is worse than war or pestilence. It is carrying thousands and thousands of our young men every year to the grave."

"Well," exclaimed the elder from the rear of the house, to the great surprise of every one present, "it has one good feature."

"Pray what is that, brother?" asked the astonished speaker.

"It takes only those that we can spare the best."

His Present Occupation.

Harry—Still an M. D.?

Pillsbury—No. Gone to the other extreme.

"What do you mean?"

"I'm operating a dyspepsia factory."

"The Dickens?"

"Yes. I'm proprietor of a railroad restaurant, and my partner is a specialist in stomach disorders. We're getting rich."—Pittsburg Bulletin.

His Discharge.

A touching instance of the humor which never deserts a true Irishman, even in his worst troubles, is recorded in an exchange.

A soldier was seen in the trenches holding his hand above the earthwork. His captain asked:

"What are you doing that for, Pat?"

He replied with a grin as he worked his fingers:

"I'm feelin' for a furlough, sure!"

Just then a rifle-ball struck his arm below the wrist. He drew it down quickly, and grasped it with the other hand to check the blood. Then a queer expression of pain and humor passed over his face, and he exclaimed:

"An' faith it's a discharge!"

A TRAMP STORY.

Beneath Judge Bently's roof there was trouble and tribulation. It was a comfortable looking residence in the suburbs of Dallas, Tex.

Judge Bently was a wealthy lawyer, a man of practical ideas. His wife was a kind-hearted, matronly woman. The cause of their trouble, or to be more explicit, the cause of Mrs. Bently's trouble, for it was she who took it most to heart, was the absence of their youngest son, Charlie. He was a boy of 16, full of life and mischief. He had a chronic aversion to work, or in fact to anything serious. This conduct exasperated his father very much. Judge Bently secured a position for Charlie in a store, but his carelessness caused his employer to discharge him.

This was the last feather that broke the camel's back. In bitter terms did he express his disgust and indignation.

"You are a worthless, trifling young scamp. You will be a disgrace to yourself and everybody connected with you as long as you live. You will never be able or willing to earn your own living. You will become a tramp, and you will live and die a tramp."

Probably for the first time in his life Charlie's mischievousness seemed to leave him. He became deathly pale, and there were tears in his eyes.

That night he did not come home to supper. In fact, he did not come home at all. It was the first time he had not slept under the paternal roof. His mother was very much alarmed, particularly when he did not put in an appearance next day it became plain that Charlie had ran away from home. His father's predictions had come very true soon.

Judge Bently felt very much grieved on account of his wife. As for Charlie he said: "The boy is all right. When he gets hungry he will come home."

Charlie had been gone about three weeks, when one day Judge Bently returned from town and entered the sitting room where his wife was. Her eyes were red with weeping. She looked anxiously at her husband's face. He merely shook his head.

"No answer to the telegrams?"

"Not a line."

Mrs. Bently covered her face with her hands and sobbed convulsively.

"For heaven's sake, cheer up. This perpetual crying and going on about Charlie is worse than the toothache. When I wake up in the middle of the night I hear you crying. He'll turn up all right some day. I'd like to tan his hide for him causing so much trouble."

"No," replied Mrs. Bently, shaking her head despondingly; "I know he is sick. Just think of his being sick among a lot of strangers without a cent of money," and a fresh outburst of grief followed.

"If I only had him in the barn for a few minutes!" said Judge Bently, gritting his teeth. "This going through life to the music of the Dead March in Saul is enough to drive a man crazy," he added, sitting down and glaring at the window.

"And last night I dreamt about snakes, and that means a death in the family," and once more Mrs. Bently gave vent to her emotions. The judge got up and stamped out.

It is an ill wind that does not blow somebody some good. Mrs. Bently was always kind to the poor, but after Charlie had disappeared no tramp ever went away from the house without carrying with him somewhere a very square meal—one night say a cubic meal, with all the corners on it. She imagined that her Charlie was obliged to beg his way, and she was merely doing as she wished him to be done by. When the good woman fed a tramp she seemed to think she was feeding Charlie.

In winter Texas swarms with tramps, and they seem to know by intuition that the Bently mansion was a good place at which to apply for assistance. No matter how repulsive the tramp might be Mrs. Bently set up a generous meal in the dining room, and when, having gorged himself, he took his leave, Mrs. Bently pressed a dime into the vagrant's palm. Some of the tramps were so astounded at this unusual treatment that after incoherently muttered thanks strolled out into the fresh air in a dazed condition. Others thought of their own mothers and went off wiping their eyes. One poor famished Irishman actually knelt down in the hall, and gazing upward at the hat-rack, implored the blessed Virgin to keep her eyes on Mrs. Bently in this world and supply her with a front seat in the next.

As for Judge Bently, he suggested to his wife that she should put out a sign reading "Tramps' Boarding House, or Vagrants' Resort." His idea on the tramp question was that such of them as could be conveniently used for fish bait, should be dessiccated and canned for exportation to the Cannibal Islands.

When the Judge went into the back yard, Mrs. Bently perceived a little old man at the gate. He wore a long white beard and blue goggles. He was evidently a German, and could not speak English. He pointed to his mouth and made other gestures indicative of great hunger.

He was soon engaged in manipulating a knife and fork, and having finished his meal, he rose to depart.

Judge Bently appeared in the door and smiled cynically.

"Hadn't you better send out and get some ice cream to take away the feeling of fullness from which he is suffering," said the judge.

"O, George, keep quiet. Perhaps he understands what you say."

"Hadn't you better kiss him for his mother before he goes?"

"O, my God!" exclaimed Mrs. Bently in an agonized voice, here eyes filling with tears, "will anybody give poor Charley a dinner and kiss him for his mother?"

The white beard and blue goggles vanished and a young smooth face, lit up by a pair of laughing eyes, took their place.

"O, Charlie!"

And they were clasped in each other's arms.—Texas Siftings.

APING ENGLISH MANNERS.

The Oxford Cap and Gown for Harvard and Princeton.

A sign of the growing Anglomania in the older state of America is the spread of English costume in the colleges. At Brown university in Providence, they have long worn the English academic gown, and now the regulation cap and gown, as worn at Oxford and Cambridge, is to be introduced into Harvard and Princeton. At Harvard the innovation will be confined to the senior class on its special anniversary day, and the decision has been made by the class itself. At Princeton the regulation is apparently general and has been determined by the college authorities. This imitation of English customs is very distasteful to the average American, and yet it goes on fast in the wealthy and cultured sets in the eastern states. Generally no official dress is worn in American colleges any more than in American courts.—Quebec Mercury.

A COSTLY SORT OF TELEGRAM.

Young Birchin Lane telegraphs to his wife at Chiselhurst as follows: "Send Thomas to meet the 2:30 train," etc., which is delivered: "Send woman to meet," etc., to the bewilderment of Mrs. B. L., who telegraphs back: "How silly you are. What woman do you mean?" But B. L. is not going to submit to this sort of thing, so telegraphs again: "Did not say woman, said Thomas, Thomas, Thomas, Thomas, Thomas, Thomas, Thomas, Thomas, Thomas, Thomas, Thomas, Thomas, Thomas, Thomas, Thomas, Thomas," to the swelling of the revenue and the amusement of the telegraph staff.—London Tid-Bits.

BOOTS COMING IN AGAIN.

They Keep Trousers from Bagging and are Useful in the Mud.

Mark my words, before another year goes by you will see all the swells in town wearing boots, says a shoemaker in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. For years there has been scarcely any demand in the cities for long-legged footwear, every one except countrymen, who are obliged to wade through the mud, wearing shoes. But for the last two months there has been a most noticeable increase in the demand for fine grade boots, and the manufacturers have been obliged to make thousands of pairs on very short notice.

The only reason for this that I have heard is the alleged fact that boots do much to prevent trousers bagging at the knees.

GOOD REPUBLICAN DOCTRINE.

With a duty on hides, as proposed by Uncle Jerry Rusk, the price of shoes will go up, but then people who have been buying two pairs a year may get along with one pair, while those who have but one pair may go bare-footed.—Chicago Press.

HE AND SHE.

He Answered Her Questions but Didn't Tell His Story.

If there is one thing more than another calculated to throw a man into a gnashing-of-the-teeth and tearing-of-the-hair condition, it is his attempt to give the wife of his bosom an account of some ordinary affairs, to which she listens after this fashion:

He—Oh, my dear, I must tell you something Jack Burroughs told me to-day while—

She—Where did you see Jack Burroughs?

"Oh, we went out to luncheon together, and—"

"How did you happen to go out to luncheon together?"

"Well, we didn't exactly go out together: I met Jack on the restaurant steps, and—"

"What restaurant?"

"Colloways. And Jack—"

"How did you happen to go to Calloways? I thought you always lunched at Draper's."

"I nearly always do; but I just happened to drop into Colloway's to-day, along with Jack, and—"

"Does he always lunch at Calloway's?"

"I'm sure, my dear (a little sharply), that I don't know if he does or not. It makes no earthly difference if—"

"Oh, of course not. (Hastily.) I just wondered if he did; that's all. Go on with your story."

"Well, while we were eating our soup, Jack—"

"What kind of soup?"

"Turtle. Jack said that—"

"I thought you disliked turtle soup."

"Well, I don't care much about it; but—"

"How did you happen to order it if you don't care for it?"

"Because I did. (Severely.) But the soup has nothing to do with the story."

"Oh, of course not. (In a grieved tone.) I never said that it did. I don't see why you should get so cross over a simple question. Go on."

"Well, while we were eating our soup, Lawrence Hildreth and his new wife came in, and—"

"They did?"

"I have just said so."

"Well, you needn't be so cross about it."

"They came in, and—"

"Is she pretty?"

"Pretty enough. Jack bowed and—"

"Does he know them?"

"Well, now, do you suppose he would have bowed if he hadn't known them? I declare if I—"

"How was she dressed?"

"How should I know? I never looked at her dress. What I was going to tell you was that—"

"Did they sit near you?"

"Yes; at the next table. And while they were ordering, Jack said that they—"

"Could they hear him?"

"Do you suppose (fiercely) that Jack would have no more sense than to let them hear him talking about them? I'll swear if—"

"James, if you can't tell a simple little incident without getting into a passion, you'd better keep it to yourself. What did Jack say?"

"He said that Mrs. Hildreth's father was opposed to the match, and—"

"How did he know that?"

"Great Caesar! There you go again!"

"James, will you please remember that it is your wife to whom you are speaking, sir?"

"No other woman would drive me raving, distracted crazy, asking silly questions about—"

"James!"

"Every time I try to tell you anything you begin, and you—"

"James (rising with dignity and saying stiffly), I do not propose listening to any such insulting remarks, and—"

"You never listen to anything. That's the trouble. If—"

"When I ask a simple question you—"

"I'd say 'simple.' You've asked me a million 'simple' questions in the last half hour, just because I was going to tell you that Jack Burroughs said that—"

"I do not wish to hear what Mr. Jack Burroughs said if you cannot tell it respectfully. I shall have my dinner sent to my room, since it is so painful for you to eat with an idiot." (Retires scornfully while he narrowly escapes an attack of apoplexy).

A STRANGE CUSTOM.

Ye western maidens who receive the slavish adoration of admirers who court you in the parlor, apart from all prying eyes, listen to this from "sunny Italy," as given by the Catholic Union and Times: At the far end of Naples lies the Church of Santa Maria Anuntiata, which once a year, on the day of Our Lady, wakes up into a brief life and excitement. In a silent row before the high altar kneel thirty girls, all in black garments, with folded hands and eyes fixed on the picture of the Madonna before them.

These are orphans from the neighboring foundling asylum, and once a year all those who have reached the age of 18 are brought here to the church, and may be chosen in marriage by any honest man whose papers are in good order and whose character is good.

At the door leading to the sacristy leans a gray-headed priest, the head of the asylum.

By and by a man makes his way from the back of the church and hands him a little packet of papers. These the priest reads carefully, and being evidently satisfied he gives back the papers and leads the applicant toward the row of girls.

All eyes are fixed more steadfastly than ever on the altar, all their hands are clasped tighter together, their faces turn a shade paler, their hearts beat quicker as the young man walks slowly along the row. At last he stops. His choice is made. He stretches out his hand with a little smile. The girl rises, puts her hand into that of the stranger, and together they disappear into the sacristy. The ice being thus broken, other suitors come forward.

LOOK AT THIS.

Are these not healthy and bright children? Their appearance does not misrepresent them; they are both healthy and bright. They are the son and daughter of Mr. J. P. Wiley, of Dorchester, Mass., [illegible] has an interesting story to tell in regard to them. The story is as follows:

"In 1885 my wife, accompanied by my little boy, at that time 11 months old, was visiting relatives in Scranton, Penna. The little fellow was suffering untold agony cutting his teeth. My wife was told to try Dr. Hand's Teething Lotion. The effect was magical. It did not stupefy the child, as most remedies of this character do; it simply soothed the pain of the burning and aching gums. I might write a volume, had I the time, praising this remedy, and then not express my feelings or do it justice, it is simply marvelous. After her return to Boston she wanted another bottle, but I found that it was unknown in this city. I corresponded with Dr. Hand, and received in reply a sample of each of his remedies. I used them on both my children, recommended them to all my friends, and have yet to find the person who, after using the remedies, especially Teething Lotion and Colic Cure, that could not praise them. People may say, and have said to me: 'Oh, there must be something in that Teething Lotion that affects a child's brain.' In reply to this, I will say I have two children, a boy and girl, who have been treated with Teething Lotion since time of beginning to end of teething, and I challenge any person to furnish two with any clearer brains. I cheerfully recommend them to parents who love their little ones."

A little book, illustrated, full of sense and suggestion, or sample bottle, will be sent to any one in the land, FREE.

English markets as reported herein are firm for wheat and corn.

After the most urgent demand of the shorts had been supplied and the result of the visible supply was known, wheat suddenly weakened, and the advance at Chicago was entirely lost, and part of it in New York. Corn also lost a portion of the early gain, but closed higher.

In New York November wheat closed 3-4c higher, December 3-8c; November corn unchanged and December 7-8c up; November oats 1-4c up.

In Chicago December and May wheat closed precisely where they did Saturday. November corn 4c higher; November oats 1c higher.

In Toledo.—There has been quite an active business reported in wheat futures and most of it for May. Opening and later prices were 1-8c to 5-8c better, but the gain was lost and the market closed at Saturday's price for December and 1c up for May. On the call December sold at 99 1-4c to 98 5-8c, and May at $1 05 3-4. After the call December sold at 98 1-2c to 99c, and closed at 98 1-2. May sold at $1 05 3-4 to $1 06 1-8 and closed at $1 05 5-8.

Cash wheat was in better request, and the sales were increased over Saturday. No. 2 soft sold at 97 3-4 to 98c and closed at that, a gain of 1-4c; No. 3 soft at 94 1-4c; No. 4 soft at 88 1-4c; rejected No. 1 at 89c; No. 2 at 80; No. 1 white at 95c; No. 2 at 94c.

Corn—No. 2 at 53 3-4c; January at 44 3-4c; No. 4 at 44 1-2 to 45c. Nothing reported in oats. Rye was 3-4c cheaper; No. 2 at 94 1-2 to 94c; No. 3 at 91c; rejected at 87c.

The visible supply of wheat increased last week 2,186,000 bu., corn 144,000 bu., and oats 171,000 bu. In the corresponding week in 1890 wheat increased 993,000 bu., corn decreased 1,330,000 bu.; oats decreased 441,000 bu.

The Growing Wheat.

We have had a three days' rain in Ohio, and it has been of immense benefit to the growing wheat. Now for ten days of old-time Indian summer weather, and the crop will be in better condition for winter. The reports from every western winter wheat state correspond on stating that the crop is weak but there is nothing to prevent a fair yield with favorable conditions now and in the winter.

Markets.

The wheat market in this country opened this morning with some disappointment because of the quiet condition of English and European markets where it had been expected they would have shown some excitement. Prices at opening, abroad and here, were not much changed. Later the shorts dealers of wheat were made nervous by the large outward movement, and made a simultaneous effort to recover their gain, and prices advanced 1c bu very quickly. It requires good courage to stand short of wheat these days, and mostly these people slip their halter and run on small provocation.

Corn has been very strong. The hot weather for three days is unfavorable to free receipts, while it helps the wheat crop.

Seed Market.

The receipts of this commodity at Toledo last week were 2,982 bags, shipments 2,550 bags. In the corresponding week in 1890 the receipts were 2,819 bags, shipments 2,534 bags. Since September 1st, the receipts have been 37,025 bags, and the shipments 13,860 bags, compared with receipts 36,376 bags and shipments 25,475 bags in the corresponding period in 1890.

The exports from New York for the week ending Nov. 14th, were 2,304 bags, and since September 1st to same date 19,761 bags, compared with 21,418 bags in the corresponding period in 1890.

APPEAL FOR AID.

Will Our Good Citizens Help Establish the Day Nursery?

The King's Daughters of the Day Nursery circle met in the First Congregational church on Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Dr. Bacon presiding, Mrs. S. F. Waldron secretary. Reports were received from various committees, showing progress in the work of establishing the Day Nursery, and that a number of women had applied to the committee on admission to have their children cared for during the day, while they were at work.

Mrs. Thos. Daniels reported a set of by-laws to govern the management and working of the nursery, and these after discussion and some amendment were adopted.

The by-laws provide for 30 managers, in addition to the officers; for regular meetings of this board of managers at least monthly at the nursery, and that each manager shall have the home under her special charge one day in the month. The duties of the matron, the officers and the committees on supplies, admission and finance are also defined.

The officers of the nursery circle are: President, Mrs. H. M. Bacon; vice-president, Mrs. Maurice Scott; treasurer, Mrs. A. M. Woolson; secretary, Mrs. S. F. Waldron.

After the by-laws were adopted the following board of monagers was elected: Mesdames W. W. Bolles, Richard Eck, James Campbell Dr. Kline, A. P. Stevens, D. E. Locke, J. B. Marston, M. P. Hubbell, E. F. Hamilton, John Walbridge, S. S. Thorn, S. R. Dority, S. E. Geddes, J. L. Hodge, Elsie Bowman, S. C. Nicholas, R. Jacoby, D. C. Shaw, S A Trowbridge; Misses Olive Colton, Grace Trost, C. B. Phelps, Anna Mery, Erminie Pheatt, Millie Davis, Grace Pratt, Mattie Norton, Mary Janes, Emma Law.

The next meeting will be held at the nursery, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when the board will organize, the matron be chosen, and the last preparations for receiving the children be concluded.

Donations Solicited.

All day next Friday, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Mrs. Maurice Scott, chairman of the committee on supplies, and other members of the board of managers, will be at the nursery to receive anything that Toledo's generous-hearted citizens may be disposed to give toward the furnishing and establishment of the nursery.

The nursery is at 101 Oak street, between Huron and Superior, a building the use of which for this purpose has been donated by the Woolson Spice company. Everyone interested in this new and noble undertaking is invited to call on Friday and learn more about it. Donations of money, of supplies, of furniture for the house, of cribs, cradles and bed clothing for the little ones, will be welcomed. No kitchen stove has yet been secured.

A DEADLY WAKE.

A Cyclone Raging in the East To-Day.

Washington Cut Off from the World.

Much Damage Done to Property of All Kinds.

A Terrible Storm Which Has Passed Out to Sea.

Later Advices Cannot But Bring the Sad Story of Disaster and Loss of Life—News Brought Into Baltimore by Railroad Trains.

Baltimore, Nov. 23.—This city has been without communication with Washington since early this morning.

The last intelligence received from that city was a telephone message stating that a terrific hurricane was raging and that several persons had been killed.

It was also said that great destruction to buildings had been caused by the tornado, many being unroofed.

Immediately after the receipt of this information the wire went down and nothing further has been heard.

All the telegraph wires are also interrupted, giving evidence of the fury of the gale. It is evident that the havoc wrought must have been great, as even at this distance the wind blew at the rate of fifty miles per hour, and signs and everything movable was sent flying.

Advices from neighboring cities show that the hurricane is general in this section, being accompanied in many instances by furious rainstorms amounting almost to cloudbursts.

It will be some time before communication can be re-established with Washington, and then it will have to be by railroad, as it will be a physical impossibility to get the wires into shape to-day.

Floods have resulted from the heavy rains in Maryland and southeastern Pennsylvania, and it is believed that reports of great damage and perhaps loss of life will be received as soon as any means can be had of conveying the intelligence.

The gale on Chesapeake bay is one of the hardest known for years. The oyster smacks have run for shelter when possible, but it is not deemed possible that all have escaped.

In Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Nov. 23.—Heavy rains and cyclone in this vicinity to-day. Several houses in this city were demolished and one at Temperanceville, burying a woman beneath it.

DESIRES TO BEAR TESTIMONY.

Henry Thorne, traveling secretary of the Y. M. C. A., writes from Exeter Hall, Strand, London, February 2, 1888: "I desire to bear my testimony to the value of Allcock's Porous Plasters. I have used them for pains in the back and side arising from rheumatic and other causes never without deriving benefit from their application. They are easily applied and very comforting. Those engaged as I am in public work which involves exposure to sudden changes of temperature, will do well to keep a supply of Allcock's Porous Plasters in their portmanteaus."

THE KNIGHTS ARE RIGHT.

The general convention of Knights of Labor in session at Toledo, O., adopted a constitutional amendment favoring compulsory education of children between the ages of 7 and 15 years. There is no doubt it would be a good thing to enforce attendance upon the public schools. "We must educate, or we must perish" is as true now as in earlier years.—Chicago Press.

'TWAS A PLEASANT AFFAIR.

The Entertainment Given by the Tri-State B. C. People.

The entertainment given in Memorial hall Saturday evening by the Tri-State Business college was a splendid success and greatly enjoyed by the invited friends of the college who were present. The hall was filled to the doors, and every number in the excellent program as printed in Saturday's Bee was well rendered. The last number, which purported to be a song by the faculty, made quite a hit for the reason that it was no song at all and the idea was a novel one. The entertainments of this college are always enjoyable affairs, and invitations are in demand.

TO NAME THE CITY

Where the Republicans Will Meet Next Year

To Nominate a Man to Run Against Cleveland.

Republican Politicians Fill the Capital City to Overflowing—Many Cities Put in Their Bid for the Convention.

Washington, Nov. 23.—The scene in the lobby of the Arlington hotel early this morning suggested the night before the opening of a national convention. There is a Sunday law in Washington which prohibits the sale of wine and liquor, but it cannot prevent free distribution of supplies from political headquarters.

The parlors of the Arlington where the delegations from the cities claiming the republican national convention were quartered, were opened all day and a greater part of the night, and they were the center of attraction for politicians, lobbyists and government officials.

At 3 o'clock this morning the stragglers were turned out of the parlors, but they congregated in the lobby in excited groups and discussed the possibilities of to-day's committee meeting until they were too tired and too sleepy to talk any more. They were the camp followers.

The workers got as little sleep, but their night was spent in earnest lobbying. The orators who were to present the claims of different cities had been chosen during the day and the list as compared was as follows:

San Francisco—Representative Joseph McKenna.

Detroit—Ex-Senator Palmer, Senator Stockbridge, ex-Representatives Allen Brewer and Maybury, Hon. J. H. Stone, W. T. Dwinne, I. T. Cowles.

Minneapolis—Senators Davis and Washburn, of Minnesota; Senator Casey, of North Dakota; ex-Senator Pierce, Col. C. W. Johnson, General Sanborn, Gov. Merriam and George A. Brackett.

Omaha—Judge C. R. Scott.

New York—Senator Hiscock, Hon. J. Sloat Fassett and Senator Hawley, of Connecticut.

Cincinnati—Gov.-elect William McKinley, jr., and ex-Gov. J. B. Foraker.

Pittsburg—Mayor Gourley and Representative Dalzell.

Many of these representatives of the rival cities were busy in their rooms preparing the speeches they were to make before the committee to-day. The other members of the city delegations were testing the power of earnest argument on members of the national committee.

The work had been divided among the members of the delegations. Each of them had received an assignment for the evening, and for those who were expected to complete their evening's work at an early hour was assigned the duty of meeting the members of the national committee who were to arrive on the morning trains. These were up at an early hour this morning on guard in the hotel lobbies. Many of them were armed with check lists of members of the national committee with the supposed bias of each man indicated on them.

No complete canvass of the committee had been possible, and even the partial canvass that had been made had not succeeded in committing many of the members to a choice.

So the lists varied widely. If they had been compared they would have shown some of the committeemen credited to three and four different cities.

Hon. T. C. Platt and Mr. Brookfield, president of the republican club of New York City, arrived on the morning trains, but Chauncey Depew has not arrived at 10 o'clock and none of the delegates at New York headquarters had heard from him.

The belated Pittsburg delegates arrived at about 9:15 and went to the Arlington. They are Congressman Dalzell, H. I. Gourley, mayor of Pittsburg, J. F. Drew, E. D. Smith, C. S. Howell, A. E. McCandless, T. J. Keenan, jr., W. B. Kroesser, H. Fergusson, W. R. Ford, S. Shannon, C. W. Miller and C. B. Larkin.

They announced that Mayor Gourley would make the opening address for the city and would be followed by Congressman Dalzell.

The headquarters of the cities that are candidates for selection were almost deserted during the morning, but the lobby of the hotel was crowded with men, nearly all of whom were in a state of suppressed excitement.

Some anxiety was manifested among the Ohio people concerning the arrival of Major McKinley, who wired last night that he would arrive in Washington from Boston shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. Their anxiety was set at rest by the arrival of the governor-elect before the time of the meeting.

The wine that the California belegation has dispensed so lavishly, and the cigars and badges that representatives of other cities have so thoughtfully pressed on members of the national committee and newspaper men, were not visible this morning and there was great disappointment in the ranks of the camp followers.
